Dear Dave,

It sure has been fun this year in algebra despite your very nasty remarks. Thanks for all the help with Dick (ha! ha!) That picnic was sure fun, wasn't it? We sure had a storm. Those fights we had with my brother, Dick, at us when we'd all get mad at us when we'd all get mad at us when we'd all get mad

Dave Howland

Dear Dave,

Well, hon its been 18 months and four days today that I've loved ya! Just think, hon a whole year and a half, and I've loved every minute of it. We've had fun haven't we? Remember the goofy things we used to do? I'll never forget! I'm glad I'll have so many wonderful memories to take with me when we move. A day hasn't passed in that year and a half That I haven't thought about ya, the things we've done, the things we do now and the things we'll do in the future.

Just remember remember to always have fun when I move (with every one!) but never forget the good times we've had together. Loads of luck in everything you do, and I hope all your wishes and dreams come true! I love ya hon, best of every thing to ya.

always,
Sue

P.S. Never Change!

Many parts compose a whole. A unit in itself cannot be successful, nor beneficial, nor even complete, without the individual parts which make up the whole. In a building, each brick is essential to the beauty and foundation of the structure. In a painting, each detail and hue must blend with the rest, yet have its own distinction. In the world, each country plays its own role, while each religion strives to interpret God. Individuals comprise the family, each one giving of himself to make that group an enjoyable one. And in each personality, there are many unique traits, which, combined, make one's self. From every whole, emerges the parts which make that unit unusual.

From the whole of South High School emerge clubs, teachers, activities, and students, each making his own contribution to his school, and to his world. Some excel academically, some athletically, some in music, painting, or writing. Some lead, many follow; all serve. Each one has an important place in the complexity called life. This is your yearbook; each one of you helped to make it. In the 1964-1965 Spectra you will see how these individual parts merge to make the whole complete.

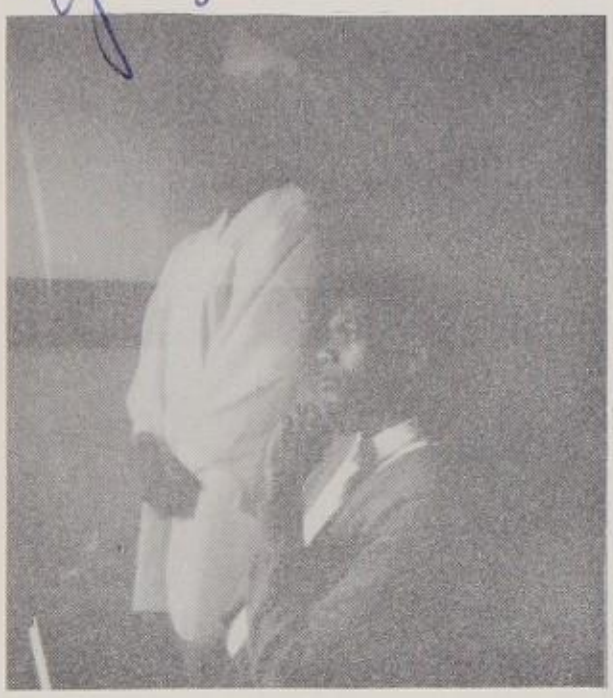
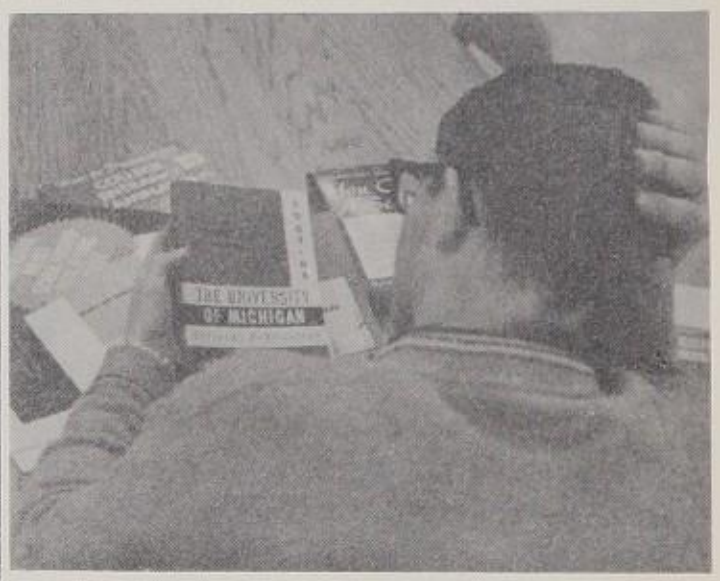
From the Whole Emerges... Instructors





Head Administrators

We, of South High, are indeed privileged to have Miss Shepard as our principal, for her capable guidance has been a great help to our school. In the four years that she has been the head administrator at South, we have seen many changes take place. Several of the new teaching methods, in use throughout the city, were initiated at South High.

As a former teacher and personnel director, she has a broad understanding of the problems of education here at South. Her counselling ideas are now widely accepted, and she has the reputation of being an excellent as well as charming administrator. We of South High are happy to know that we have such a leader.

Though only in his second year as the assistant principal at South High, Mr. Upton is well acquainted with our school. When the war ended in 1946 he was offered a position on the faculty here at South. Two very active years later, he received his Master's Degree from the University of Michigan. Mr. Upton taught Social Studies, in both junior and senior high. From 1954 to 1960, he was senior class advisor. He was in the counseling office for three years, the final year as head counselor. His experiences in working with the various age groups at South High have stood him in good stead, both as a counselor, and in his position as assistant principal.

The students and teachers of South High are glad that we have such an energetic and experienced man in this important post.

The Office Staff Has Many Duties

The South High office is always full of activity. The women who work there are responsible for keeping the records of all the students, as well as checking finances and sending transcripts.

These workers help take a great deal of routine burden from the other faculty members, such as mimeographing tests and bulletins.

In addition to these duties, the office is used as a training place for commercial students, who the members of the staff must help train. Those at South are proud to have such an industrious staff.

L. to R.: Mrs. Vanderschuur, Mrs. Vogt, Mrs. DeCook, Mrs. Campau.

Mr. Marris is responsible for the attendance of all the students in the city. He has his headquarters at South, where he receives reports on attendance from the other schools throughout the city, both public and private. It is a great task, but Mr. Marris has proven himself as quite able to do the job, and we are proud to have him at South High.

L. to R.: Mr. Ives, Mrs. Tharp, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Wolf, Mr. Tweddale.

We have a full compliment of counselors this year at South, and they have been a great help to the pupils. Those students in the seventh grade have many problems of adjustment, and there is a special counselor for them to see. The four year high school program is planned in advance and must be done well, and there is a counselor for this too. The next three years are handled by another person, and graduation and college questions are answered by still another. South High's students are very thankful for the aid which these people have given to them.

English:

The English department, with Mr. Dix as head, had a very active year. The early morning lectures were discontinued, due to the new school schedule. A woman from Western Michigan, who used to teach at South, was brought in for lectures at regular intervals, however.

Many of the English students also had the chance to see King Lear by going on a trip to Stratford, Ontario. Another play by Shakespeare was brought to South High by a college acting company. Both of these were enriching and enjoyable experiences that will be long remembered by those who participated.

Science:

Our science department enjoyed an active year under the new leadership of Mr. Horstman. Class periods were divided between lectures and lab work, which take place in modern areas that have been in use for a short time. Most of the pupils felt that the labs were the best part of the courses, for then they were able to get first hand knowledge of the mysteries of Chemistry, or the structure of an animal.

After months of adding evil smells to the rest of the school building the chemistry class got a dose of their own medicine when they went to the Dow Chemical plant in Midland. The sights and experiences on that trip will long be remembered by those who were able to go.

Social Studies:

The social studies department here at South High is led by Miss Long, who has had many years of experience in the teaching field. Each year many new and different ideas are tried in the students program. Trips to the local government offices, films, and guest speakers were all used this year in the very active and educational curriculum. The government students in Mr. Corl's classes were responsible for a study of the local laws, and the way they are enforced. This proved to be a difficult but interesting study.

The knowledge gained in the social studies classes is a great help in understanding our world, and helps us realize how much our freedoms mean.

The ability to communicate with people from another country is a useful skill in todays life. Many of the pupils at South take advantage of the fine facilities that are offered by our language department. The French and Spanish students make use of the language lab, as do the Russian students, which are taking this course in its' first year at South. Mr. Zimelis is the instructor in this class which has become quite popular. Mrs. Leslie became the Latin teacher this year, and many pupils are taking this fundamental course.

Math:

The math department, which Mr. Ferguson directs, serves a variety of needs for the student body. Various types of math courses are offered at all grade levels. No student can graduate without taking some type of math, which is sound policy, considering that all people have a need for math no matter what field they pursue. The students in the commercial courses can take accounting or business math, those people desiring to know more about higher mathematics are also instructed by our capable teachers. Many of our students take part in math competition, the fine results they receive are a credit to the instructors at South High, and shows the value of their competent instruction.

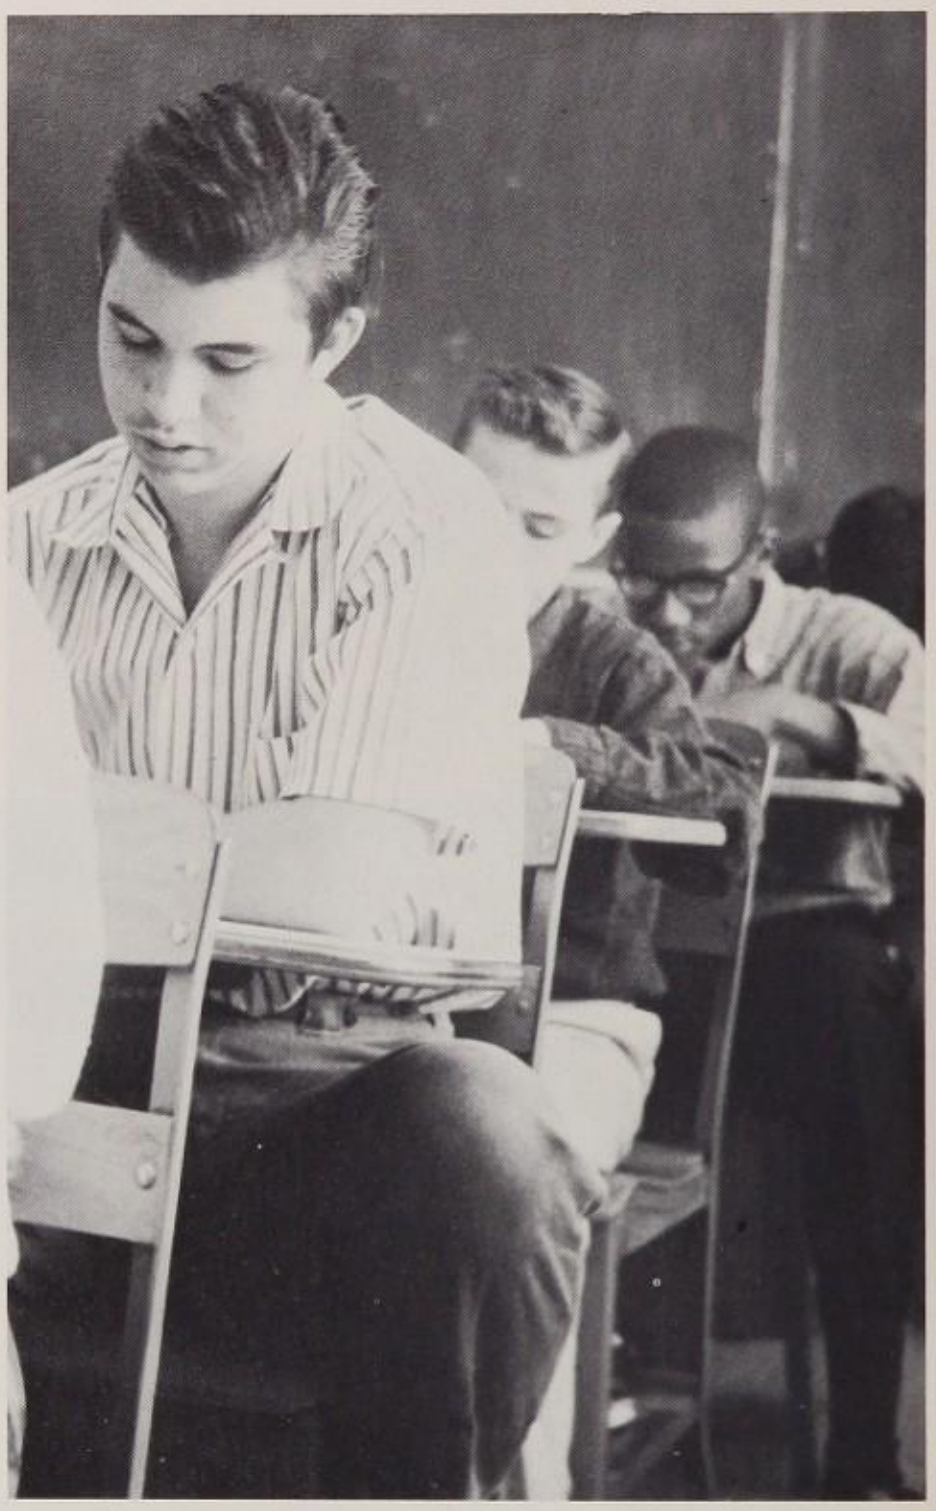
The junior high fused department is a challange to it's many fine and devoted teachers. Not only must these instructors be able to teach three subjects, but they must face the multitude of problems that confront the new high school student.

Though grammar is an important part of the English program, the ability to write in a creative manner is a vital objective of the student who wishes to continue his education. In history the role of the individual is stressed by using current events, and the ability to read is also checked. This type of program helps the student pick and prepare for his future.



Early study habits pay dividends.

Many of the South High students are taking some form of art. The visual arts are required at some levels, and many continue this training. Our band plays at football games and parades, while our very fine pep band is seen at the basketball games. The orchestra always has an excellent concert in the spring. Our choirs are found singing at many functions throughout the city, and the barbershop harmony group is reputed to be the best in the area.

The shop classes help many boys prepare for their future. Vocational training is the basis of the various shop courses that are offered at South High. The printing classes help with many of the small jobs that must be printed in the school, such as sports schedules. General shop gives basic training to boys and girls, this helps them fix everyday problems around the house. Boys must take mechanical drawing, and many continue with wood and machine work in the upper grades.

Commercial: World of Competition

We are happy to have a very complete and competent staff of commercial teachers here at South, headed by Mrs. Nickson. The students are able to get on-the-job training by work in the school office or in an outside business, on the co-operative training program. Under this program the student is paid, but also receives a mark.

There are several awards given to the outstanding commercial students, such as the Association of Women Accountants award to the best girl accountant, and the N.O.M.A. spelling awards.

Learning on Your Own

The South High library is always an active place. Many students take advantage of the great wealth of reading and research material that is to be found there. The work involved in keeping track of the more than ten thousand volumes is a large chore, and we are glad to have such able and dedicated people doing this invaluable job.

The special education classes are designed to meet the problems of the individual student. The curriculum is based on practical subjects that are geared to the ability of the individual. These students also carry on special projects.

Home Economics: Ready for a Home

All the junior high students are required to take a class in food preparation. Aside from this course home economics is an elective course, and many girls take part in these useful classes. Caring for the School and Stomachs

The South High custodial staff is responsible for the care of the school building and grounds. These able men keep the school warm in the winter, help the stage crew, and care for a myraid of details that aids the school to remain in such fine condition.

South High has one of the most modern cafeterias in the public school system. Each day the students are able to choose from many tempting dishes. Pies and other items are also available, readied by a fine staff of cooks. Feeding a large number of people who are divided into three lunch periods is not an easy task, but the cooks in the South cafeteria are doing an outstanding job. The role they have in the welfare of the school is highly appreciated.

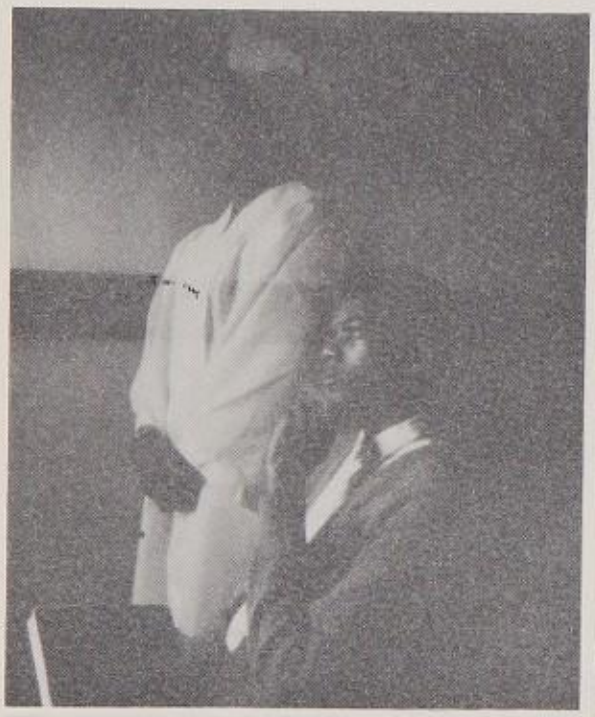
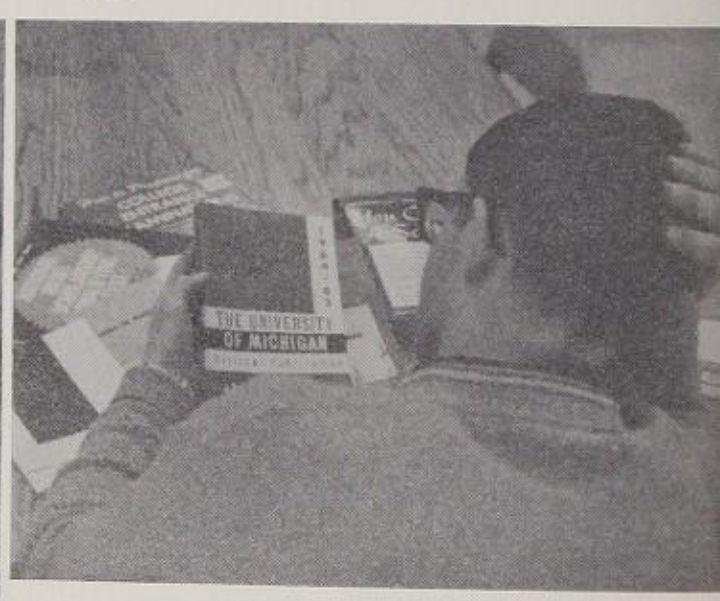
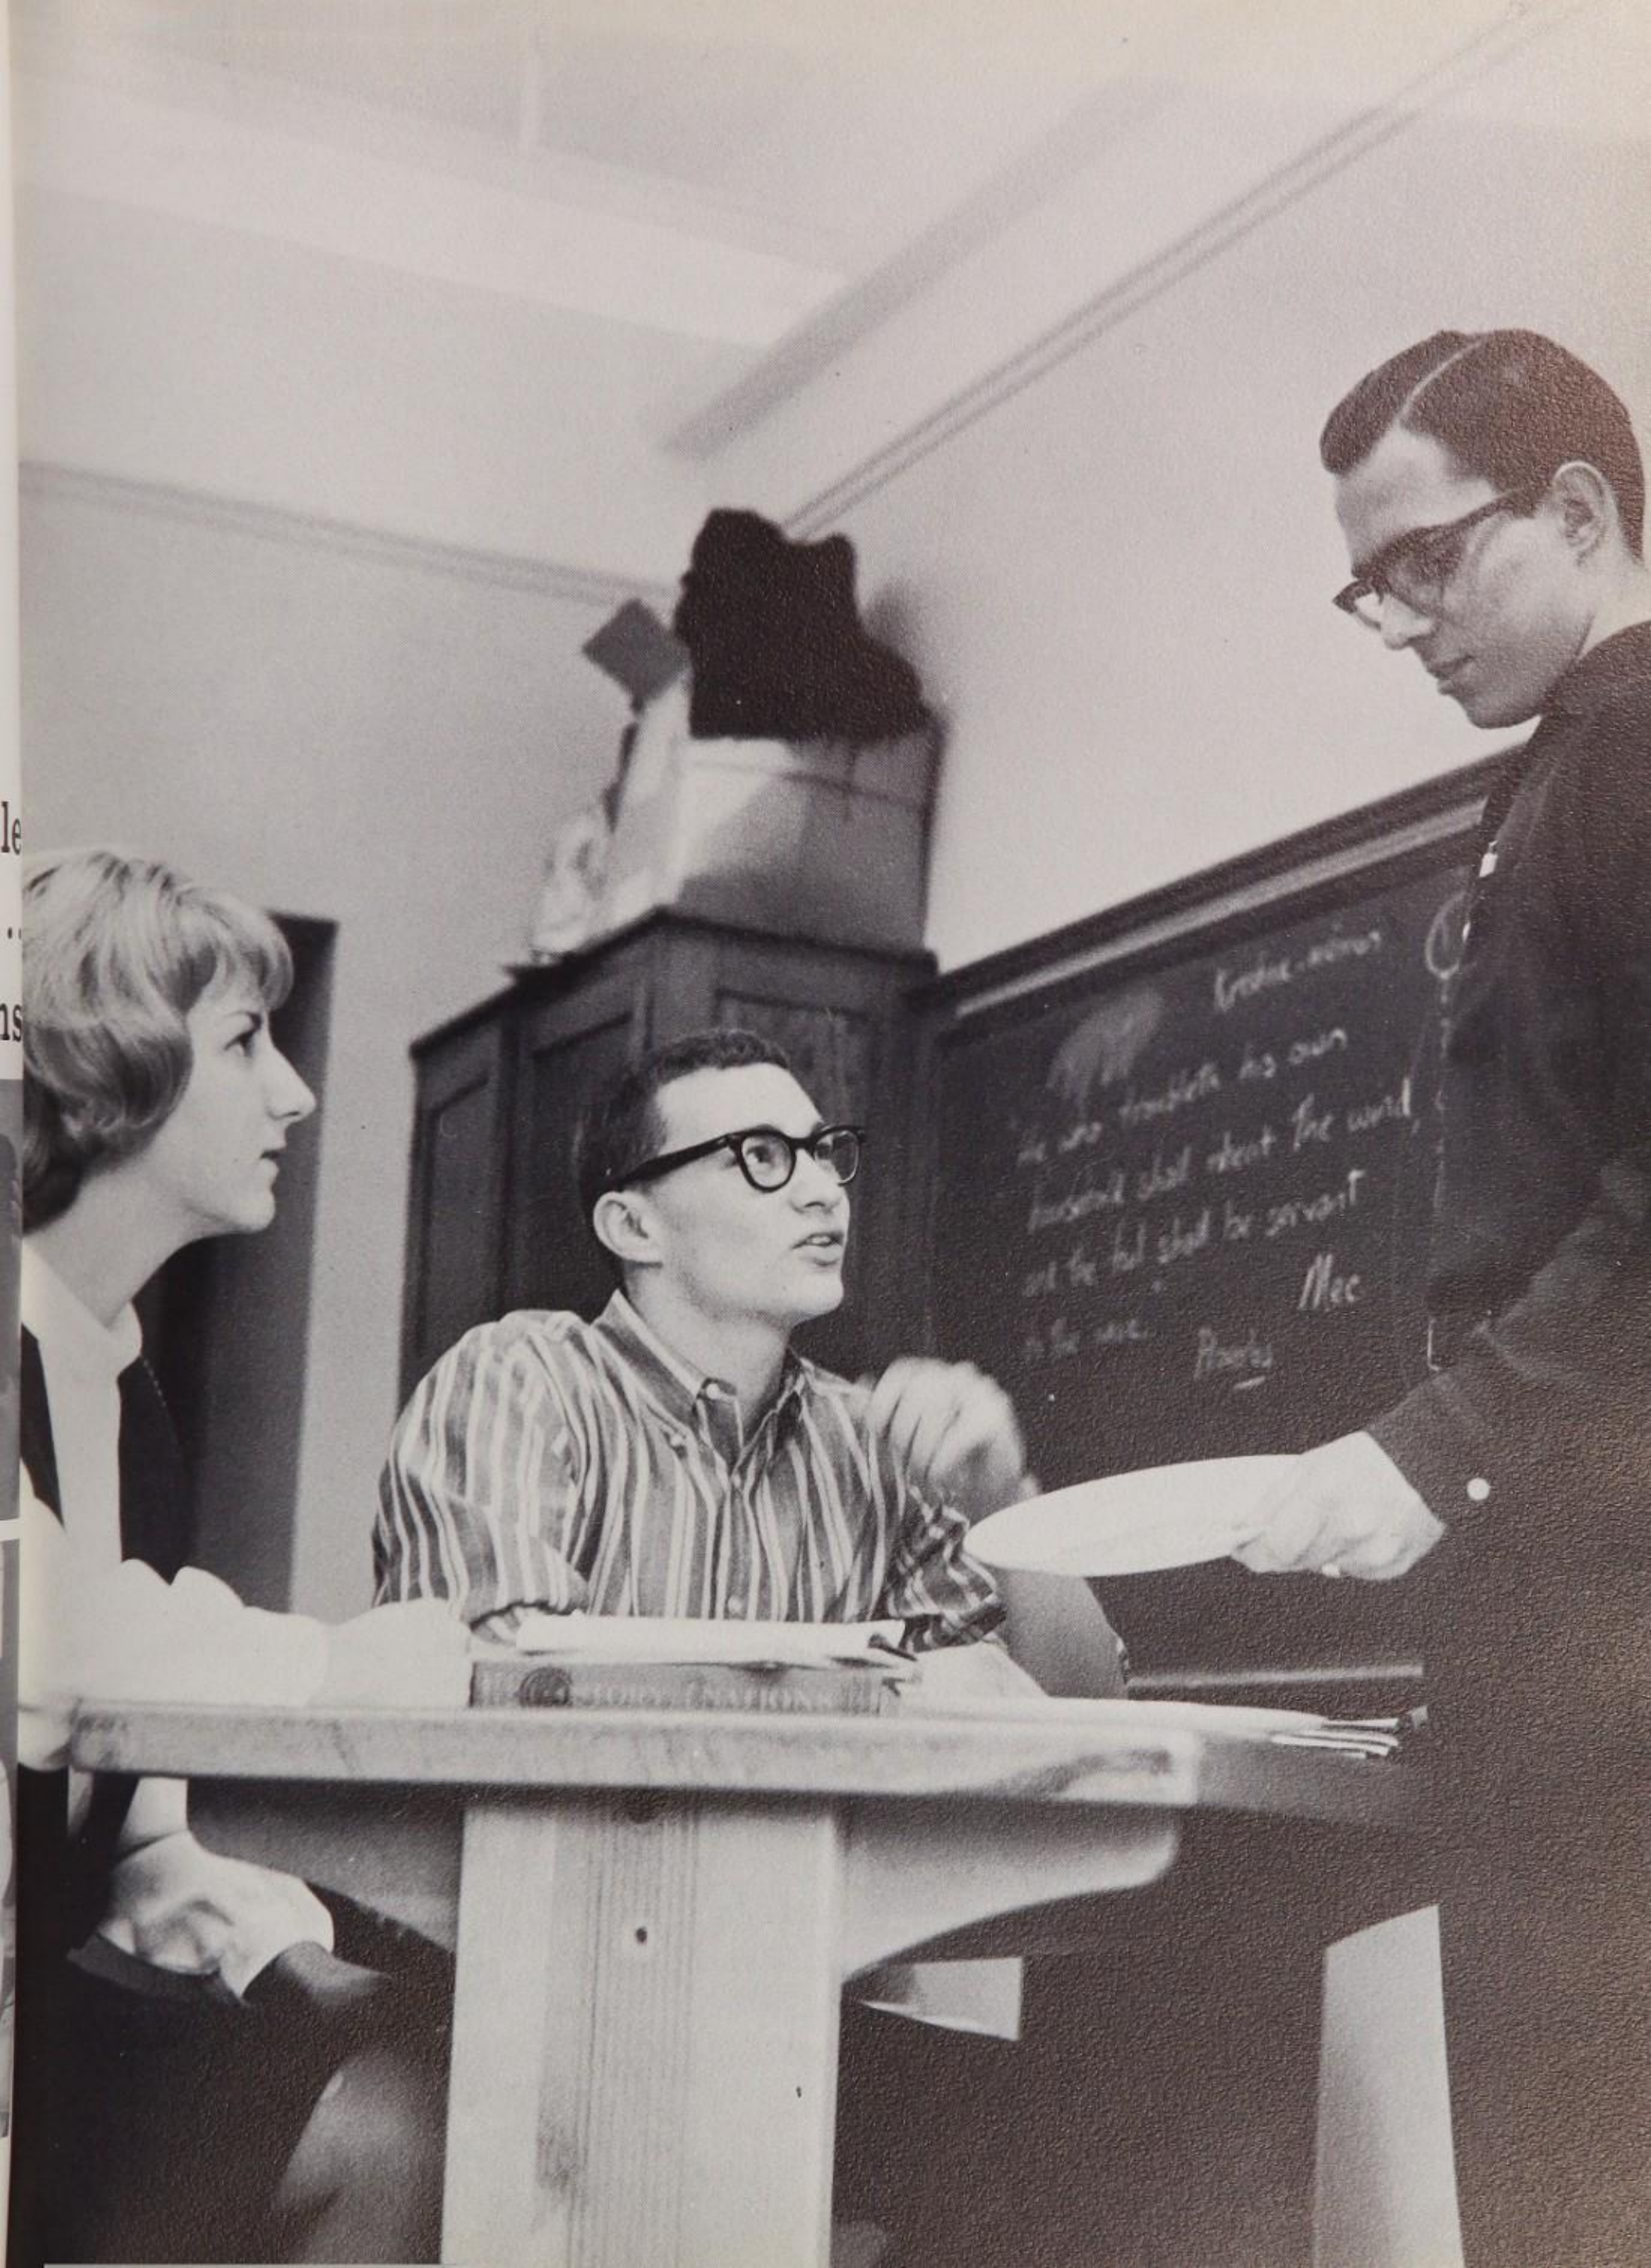
From the Whole Emerges... Organizations







The Human Relations Club hopes to settle disagreements and difficulties through discussion groups, such as this.

South's Human Relations Board and

Harrison Jones and Arnie Boezaart ponder a topic brought up by Mr. Blanding.

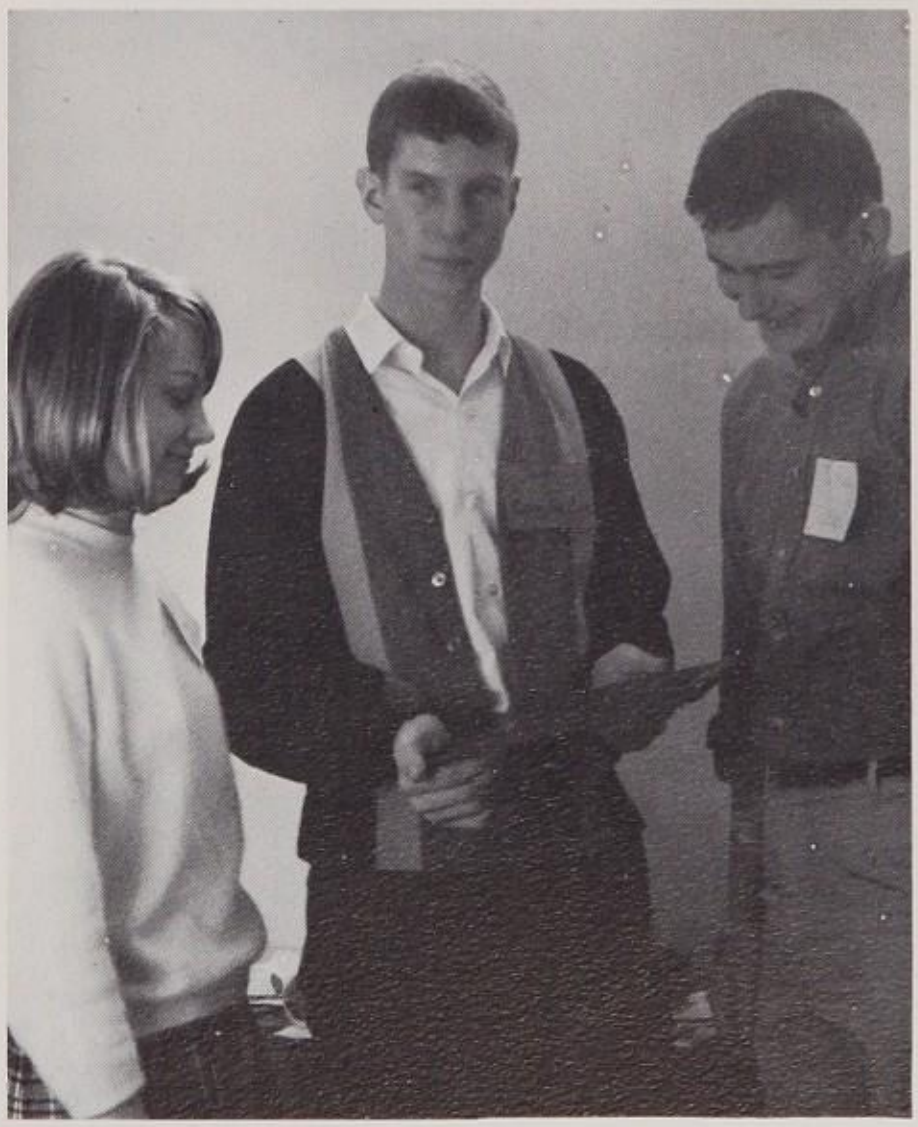
The purpose of the South High Human Relations Club is to promote better relations and more comprehensive understanding among the members of the majority and minority groups in the area. Under the direction of Mr. Roland Blanding, a graduate of the University of Tennessee and the assistant director of Human Relations in Grand Rapids, meetings are held once a month during the first hour of school. The group, consisting of approximately thirty senior high students, participates in informative lectures and discussions concerning problems in housing, education, employment, public accommodations, and police community relations both in this city and in the nation. Mr. Blanding also attempts to give each member of the club a better concept of the present civil rights movements and organizations in our country. Each student is given the opportunity to question the various and complex civil rights movements. This year, discussion in the Human Relations Club focussed mainly on the voter registration rights throughout the nation and on President Johnson's voting bill which was introduced in March. Membership in this club is a rich experience.

The Student Activities Board helps to guide and formulate School policies through its weekly meetings.

Activity Board Promotes Functions

The purpose of the Student Activities Board is the organization and coordination of Student Activities. The S.A.B. is composed of seventeen members consisting of three persons elected from each grade level eight through eleven. One member of the ninth grade at Burton and South and four persons from each grade level along with a faculty advisor appointed by the principal. In order to be eligible to become an elected member, you must have a "C" scholastic average and no more than one "3".

This board was organized in 1962 and is now under the able direction of Mr. VanVelsen following the appointment of Mr. Monson. The goals as cited by the goals committee are: to serve as the coordinator between students, faculty, administration and the community; and also to promote social activities, high scholarship, school spirit; and to increase co-operation among students, as groups or individuals. An activity sponsored annually by the S.A.B. is the exchange program which was expanded this year. This year's board was ably led by: President - Doug Taylor and Recording Secretary - Cynthia King.



Student Activity Board president Doug Taylor acts as guide for exchange students Judy Oom and Jim Mathews.

Honor Society and Future Teachers

Miss Shephard welcomes Brad Martin into the Honor Society at the induction.

Leading the way with outstanding scholarship, leadership, service, and character are the members of Honor Society. These four qualities serve as the basis for admittance into this organization. These students are placed on a voting list and the teachers and members of the society place their choices in number of preference. New members are inducted in the spring and fall via the tapping ceremony.

Under the direction of Miss Long and Miss Tazelaar, the club works on developing all the qualities of a well-rounded personality. Scholastically, the Honor Society is working on a literary magazine, in which students submit stories, poetry, and essays. The society selects the best of those offered and awards a five dollar prize to the best work every month. The club members make and sell brownies in order to raise money. Socially, they plan such activities as bowling and skating parties. This year's club was led by Dave Foley, President; and Mary Anderson, Secretary-Treasurer. This year's activities were climaxed by a spring potluck attended by the club members and their parents.

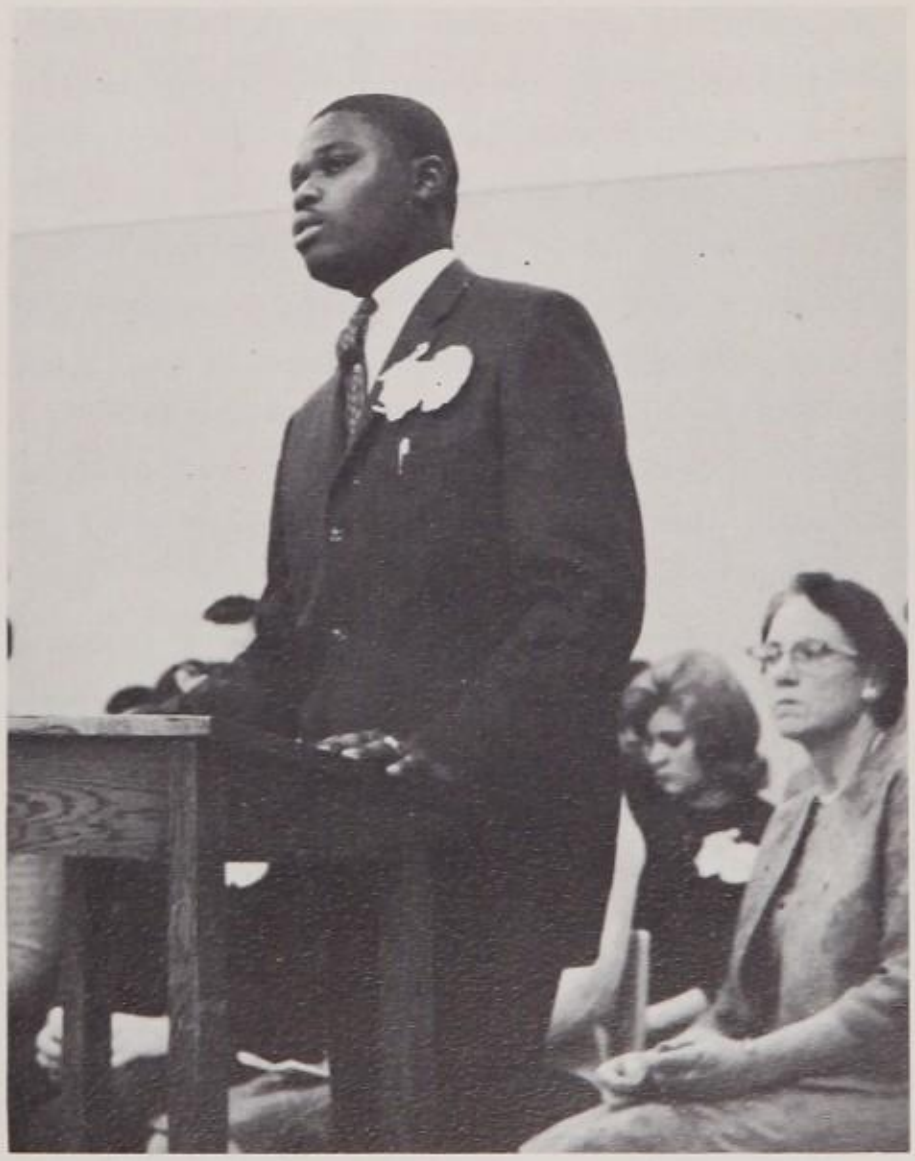
Marge Schuman and Scott Usadel complete the induction ritual of Future Teachers.

Bruce Leslie's optimistic treasurer's report is readily accepted by the club's officers, Carol Hill, Carole Morgan, Sandy Pratt, and advisor Mrs. Tharp.

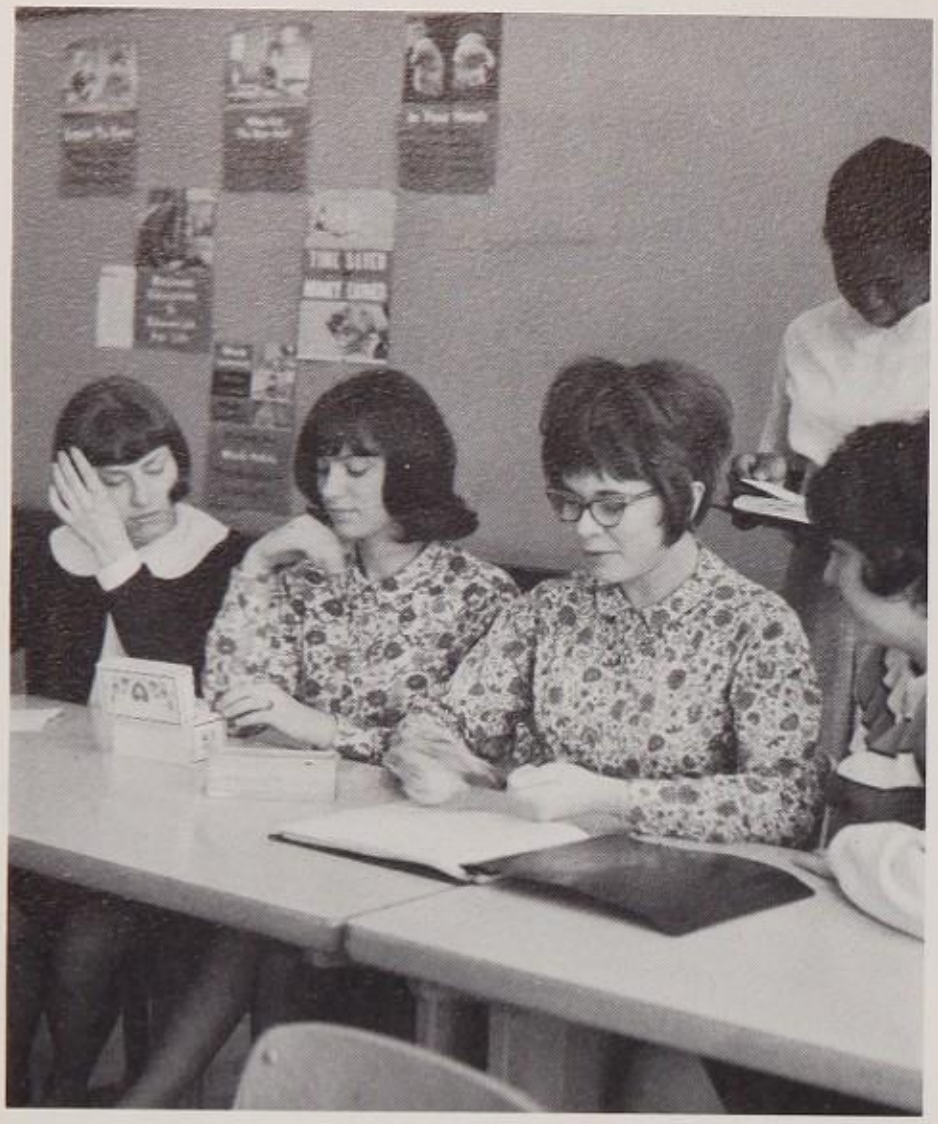
Encourage Scholastics

Exploration of the field of teaching is the main objective of Future Teachers of America, one of our most active clubs. As their first order of business, they held their annual initiation potluck dinner. Interested students are required to apply for membership, unlike other clubs, and from the applicants, new members are selected. Following the initiation dinner they took a trip to Western Michigan University to survey the campus. Meanwhile, they made future plans to visit the University of Michigan campus.

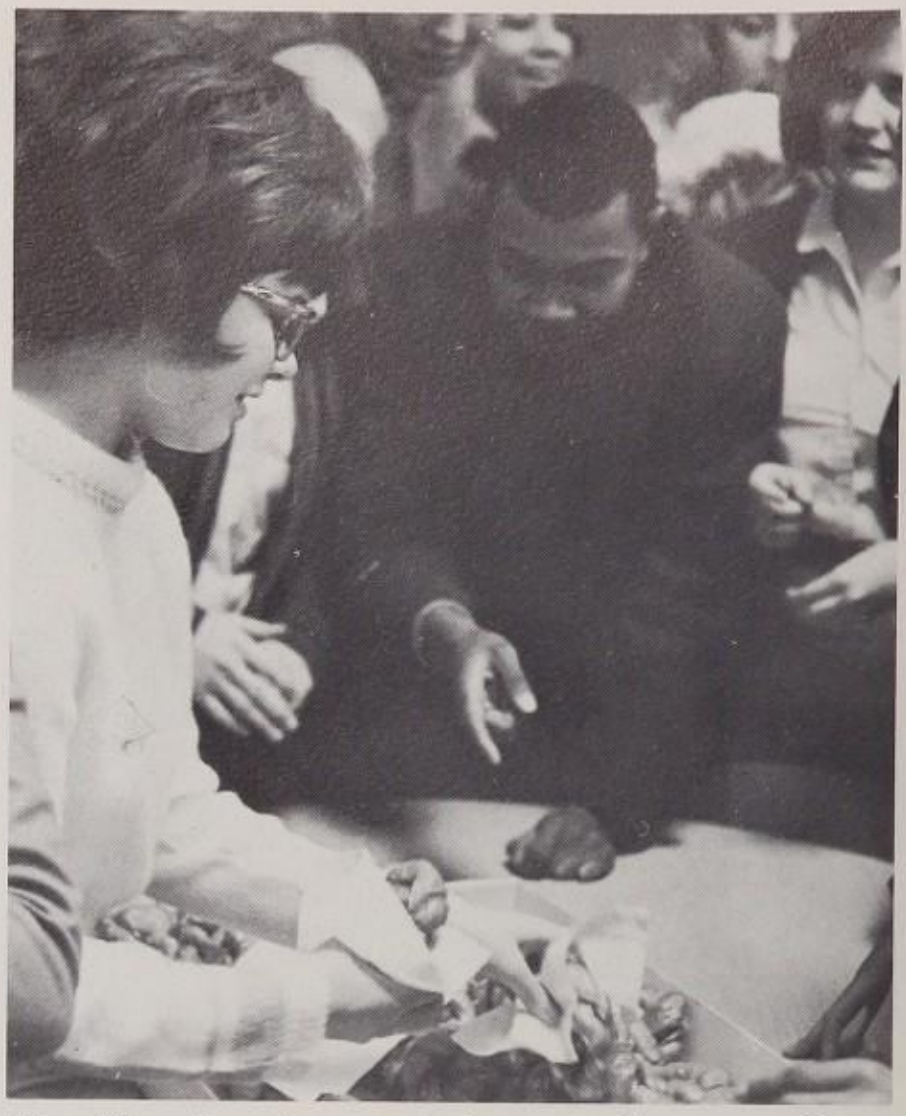
Services rendered by the club were the GAP program at Sheldon School on Wednesday nights and helping the teachers administer tests or plan and present lessons. In order to raise funds, they held doughnut sales. They also sponsored a spring workshop for all the Kent County F.T.A. groups. During the year, various social events were held such as the Christmas Tea. Organization of this club began in 1950 and affiliation with the Michigan chapter took place in 1958. Working with the sponsor, Mrs. Tharp: President - Carole Morgan; Vice-president - Sandra Pratt; Secretary - Carol Hill; and Treasurer - Bruce Leslie.



The fall induction meeting is opened by a welcoming speech given by Harrison Jones.



The officers check the financial results of their weekly donut sale.



The Thursday donut rush keeps saleswoman Gwen Heatwole busy.

Business Can Be Fun and Interesting

Organization of this club began in 1946 by Mrs. Idah Nickson and has continued developing now for nineteen years. It was organized for the purpose of creating interest in the opportunities and standards of the business world while extending into social development also. The club is mainly composed of students, majoring in the "business skills," and consequently is entirely female in membership.

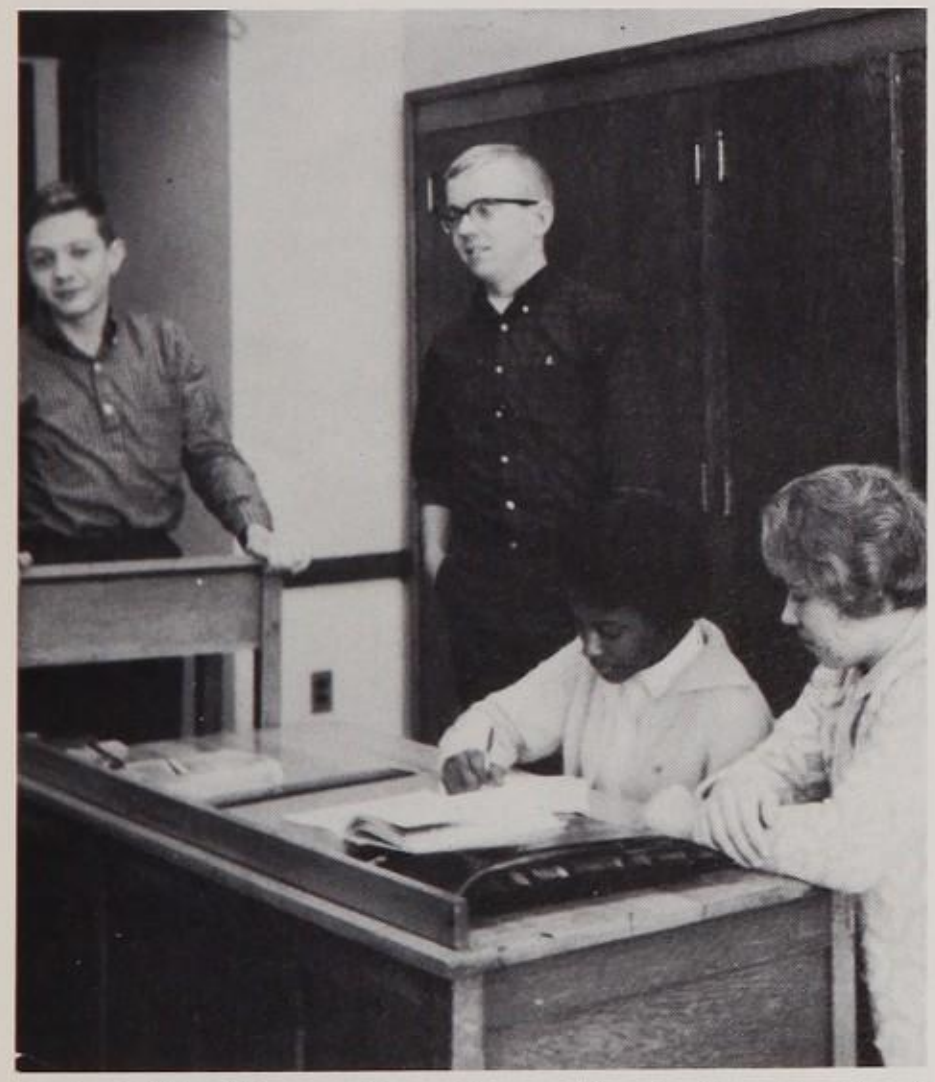
Sponsoring of many activities, such as hosting at Vocational Day and P.T.S.A. open house keep the club members very busy throughout the year. To raise funds for social affairs and their donation to Santa Claus Girls they sold donuts, dishcloths, candy bars, and a few Christmas novelties. Tradition also plays a large part in the club for such activities as the Mother-Daughter Banquet and Alumni Reunion are held every year. Officers of the Commercial Club are president, Sue Usadel; vice-president, Pat Roempke; secretary, Joyce Montgomery; and treasurer, Gwen Heatwole. Mrs. Idah Nickson has proved the success of this club by the continual interest aroused in the students, year after year.

Club president, Sue Usadel, leads an impromptu meeting.

New candidate pays tribute to member in Latin Club initiation.

Taskmaster Rocky Love fires commands at Latin Club recruits.

Latin Club Enlivens Many Customs

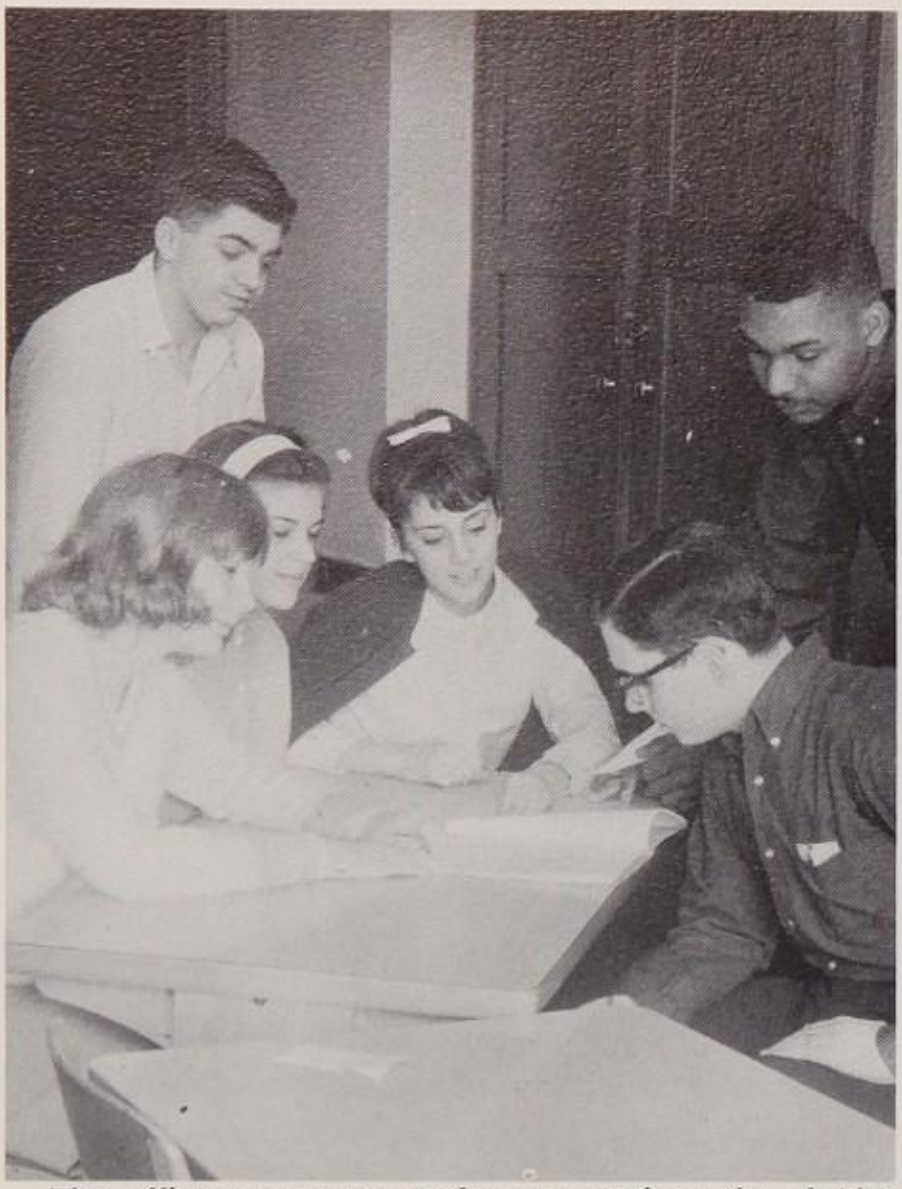


Latin Club officers, Dave Brown, Randy Clough, Ranell Young, and Ilona Sabo, discuss plans for future meetings.

Dressed in slave costumes and singing Beatle songs in Latin, the new Latin Club members were initiated. Former members seized this opportunity of maintaining a "slave" for the day and forced the applicants to bow to them in the corridors and carry their books. Although many are of the opinion that the Latin language is a dead language and the Roman Customs are outdated, the Latin Club at South High finds it valuable to prove that these beliefs are wrong.

The meetings are potlucks, held at the home of Mrs. Leslie. The club's main objective is to promote a better understanding of the Roman civilization among the Latin students and to instill an interest in the language. Both new and old members went to the Greek Orthodox Church to view Greek costumes and customs.

"Romans of the Modern Era" was reorganized in 1962 under the direction of Mrs. Bivins and again this year by Mrs. Leslie. This year's club leaders were: President - Dave Brown; Vice-president - Randy Clough; Treasurer - Ilona Sabo; and Secretary - Ranell Young. The club activities were climaxed by a city-wide Latin day.



The officers must meet often to continue the club's busy schedule

A member's home serves as their monthly meeting place.

French and Spanish Club

New members suffer through day of initiation.

The purpose of the French Club is to gain knowledge of and promote interest in French-speaking people and their culture.

Every member attends monthly a business meeting and potluck dinner held at one of the homes of its members. The final meeting of the year is traditionally a French picnic given by the underclassmen for the seniors. This year the club was ably led by: President - Bruce Leslie; Vice President - Arnold Boezaart; Secretary - Sue McLenithan; Treasurer - Nancy Richardson.

The three qualifications: leadership, scholarship, and activities within the club are the basis on which a scholarship is awarded to one senior member annually. The scholarship is awarded to this person after he has successfully completed the first semester of his sophomore year in college. The most deserving person is selected by the scholarship committee. To raise money for this, the club sells everything from French bread to decorative plates with a picture and history of South High on them. The French Club was organized in 1921 and reorganization took place in 1951.

While promoting an interest in Spanish speaking people and their customs, the Spanish Club also creates a social atmosphere among Spanish students. Its membership is open to not only present Spanish students, but also former students.

To develop this interest the club members participate in such activities as an annual luncheon at the Fiesta Cafe, viewing movies on Spanish people, and candy sales supplied with candy the club members made themselves. The club's candy sales supply the treasury with needed funds. They also held social activities beginning with a trip to the orchards at Mrs. Briggs' farm, a toboggan party at Johnson Park and future plans are being made for spring picnics and hikes. She provides Spanish riddles, poems and songs, not only for her club members, but for her students as well. The club has been in existence since 1949 and through these many activities has promoted great interest and a large membership. This year's officers include: President-Phil Schoonbeck, Vice President-Robert Veldman, Secretary-Louis Sarog, Treasurer-Carol Fisher.

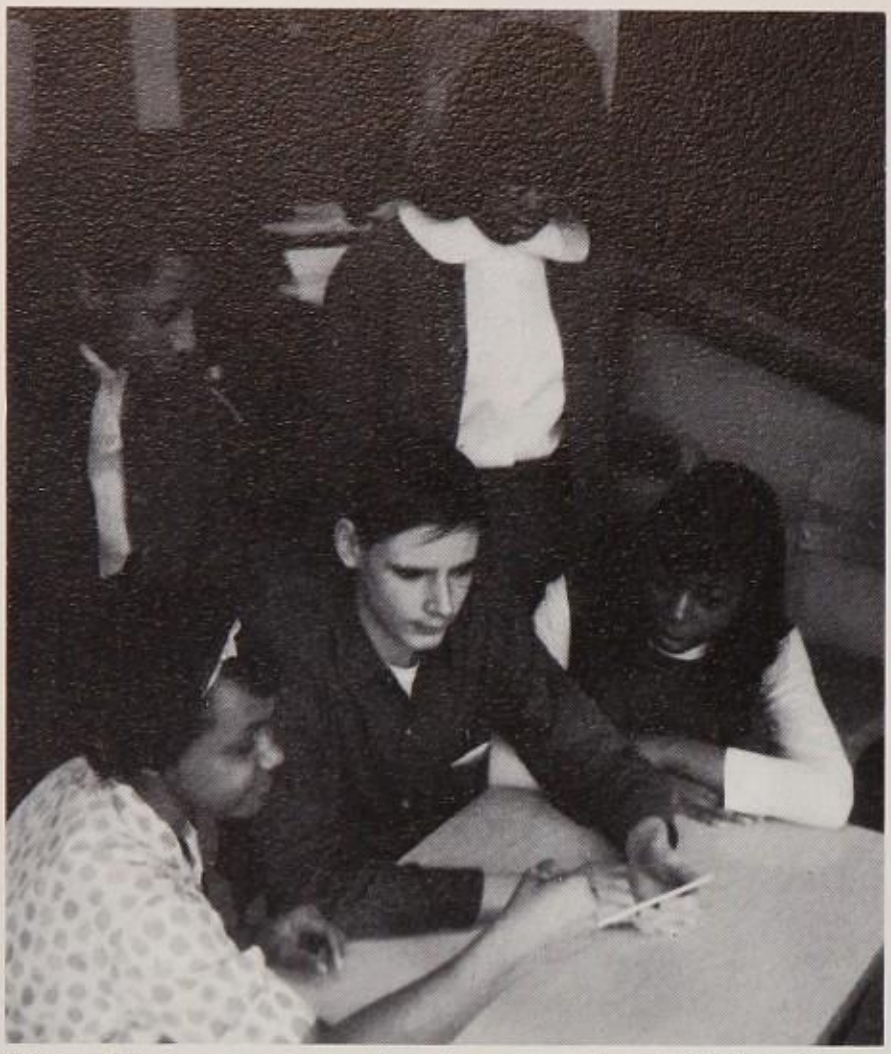
Support and Promote Sportsmanship

The Pep Club officers give willingly their time and energy for the betterment of the school.

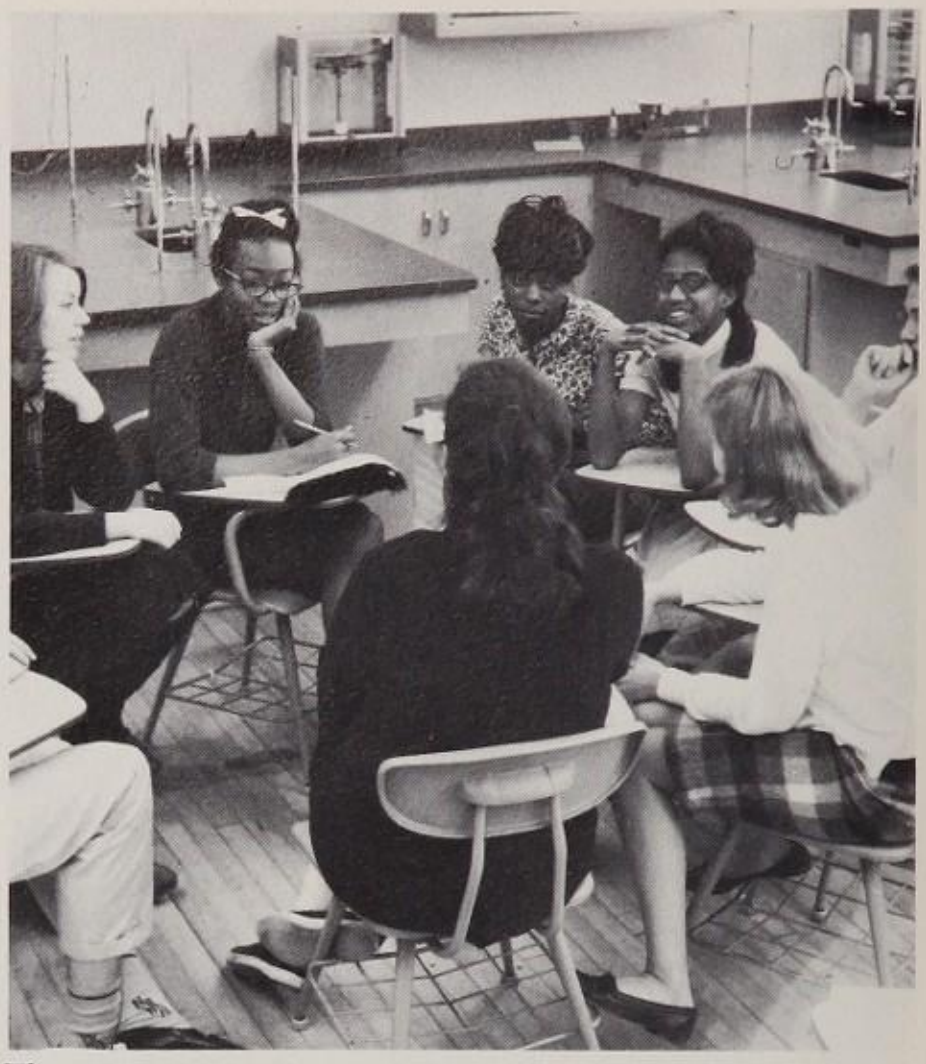
Under the able direction of Mr. Parker, the Pep Club of 1965 instilled spirit into the team with a lively cheering and card section. This card section operated by the Pep Club is the only one of its kind. To have the card section everyone must sit in the same area for the first half of the games. Enthusiasm was shown by the students in the form of greater participation. This also means that either Mr. Parker or Mr. Corl must be there early to arrange the cards and make sure that the section has enough students.

The Pep Club has been in existence since 1959 and has rendered many services such as painting signs and selling beanies for the game. Traditionally, they sponsor a tea for both the mothers of the football players and mothers of the basketball players.

Its membership composed of both junior and senior girls, the Pep Club is one of the largest clubs at South High. Officers are: President - Myra Lewis; Vice-president - Raleigh Rasmussen; Secretary - Mary Lynne Stanton; Treasurer - Carole Morgan.



The officers met together in several quick briefing sessions.



The working schedule in the nurse's office is planned during Red Cross meetings.

Red Cross Uses Volunteers

The Red Cross council at South High is under the guidance of Mr. John Zimelis. The group is composed of about twelve senior high students who are interested in promoting the cause of the Red Cross in the school. The main purpose of the club is to promote the Red Cross and its activities in the school. The club also gives an opportunity to the members to perform services in the school and the community. As a chapter of the Kent County Red Cross Organization the club has the privilege of sending two or three students to the summer training camp which is held in Middleville, Michigan. This camp provides an opportunity for those interested in learning first aid, becoming a Red Cross volunteer or a nurse. Here the students participate in informative lectures and discussions of first aid, water safety and the purpose of the Red Cross. In January the South High Club held a doughnut sale at school in order to finance the trip to this summer camp. In early March the club prepared and presented a play at the Park Congregational church to promote Red Cross month. They also hold chapter meetings once every month.

Mr. Thomas talks over upcoming assignments with veteran stage crew members Dick Canter and Dave Parfitt.

The Show Will Go On

Ed Mosley, Bob Drost, and Leo Figueroa comprise the curtain crew.

The Stage Crew was on hand whenever any assembly called for their specialized abilities. Members of the stage crew must learn all of the different and somewhat complicated things that contribute to making an assembly a success. They must learn how, and which curtain to draw, and which lever to pull to make certain lights go on or off. An example of their creative lighting techniques was shown in the senior play. They are also in charge of putting up the settings when plays are presented. Another responsibility that they assume is the care and maintenance of all the equipment which is at the disposal of South High's organizations, as well as outside organizations which use our auditorium. The success and ability of this crew each year is directly related to the efforts of the head custodian, Mr. Thomas, who has served South High ably in this capacity for many years.

This year's crew was directed by president - Dick Canter; secretary-treasurer - Dave Parfitt. South High could not do without the much-appreciated services that have been rendered by this very talented and trained group of hard workers.

Varsity Club Raises School Spirit

Rookie candidate Bill VanGemert grimaces from Ray Potter's paddle.

Every boy who has received a major letter award in a sport is eligible to join the Varsity Club at South High. Being eligible is the easier part, however; one is often requested to carry a raw egg to classes, eat garlic, or stand on a table in the cafeteria and sing songs. The Varsity Club, however rough and embarrassing for the applicants, is extremely hilarious to the former members who remember all too vividly the trials which they had to undergo to become members.

As a member, the fun and work begin. The Varsity Club is responsible for much of the school spirit, and the promotion of good sportsmanship. They take part in pep assemblies, usher at all assemblies, hold the ropes which keep students off the playing floor at basketball games, and sell paddlepops at the same games. This fall they sponsored a "spook" show from Hollywood and many dances.

Under the guidance of Mr. Veenkamp, track and cross country coach, and Mr. Genger, basketball coach, the Varsity Club is one of the largest and busiest clubs at South.

Key Club Serves Others

The Key Club marks its second successful year at our school under the firm guidance of Mr. Webber and Mr. Parks. The purposes of this club, composed entirely of boys, are many and varied. Their main objectives are to develop initiative and leadership, provide experience in living and working together, rendering service to both school and community, and preparation for useful citizenship. The boys in the club do unpleasant tasks such as cleaning out the school parking lot and distributing materials which urge the public to "get out and vote." The club took on the project of painting the buildings at Camp Blodgett and have presented an assembly discouraging school drop-outs, a major problem at our school, and in the city.

This civic-minded club not only is busy with jobs that benefit the community, but also travel to other communities to offer their services. They took a trip with Mr. Corl to the Honor Camp at Greenville to put on a program, and show a film of the Indianapolis 500. There is no disputing the fact that the Key Club is a club to be admired. This year's officers are: President-Bob Bruining; Vice President-Tom Rowell; Secretary-Jeff Borr; Treasurer-Bob VanderSchuur.

Ski Club Gains Support

Gaining skill and agility in skiing is the purpose of the Ski Club. Ski Club this year did not have a chance to be really successful because of the disappointing weather. They did make several trips to local ski areas, however, and had a good time. Since most of the club members are novice skiers, they managed to get into some rather odd predicaments. For instance they had one member who insisted on coming down the slopes backwards, another who straddles the tow rope, and still another who broke her thumb trying to ski with a tree. And a last word from Larry DeLiefde: be sure and lock your ski carrier as the skis that fall off your car onto the expressway may be your own.

The club was organized three years ago and is competently led by Mr. Diven, who is a certified ski instructor. During the ski season meetings are held once a week at Eskar Hills in Middleville. This year's officers are: President - Sue Carlton; Vice-president - Pat Carino; Treasurer - Gail Ritzema; and Secretary - Sue McLenithan. The members of this club have gained valuable experience in this now very popular winter sport.

Musical Talents Displayed

South High School is proud of their unusually fine and active instrumental music department. The bands and orchestras are led by Mr. Charles Berry. This year the music department enlivened the football season with a large and spirited marching band which even entertained the spectators with lively Beatle selections. The halftime ceremonies were accented by the precision of our marchers. The basketball pep band, though small, was not to be outdone. The band led the enthusiastic fans in robust cheers and provided sprite instrumental entertainment at all South home games. Pep assemblies highlighted the winter sports season and the band was out in full force at each one aiding the cheer leaders in peppy songs and cheers.

The band joined with the orchestra at Christmas time to present the annual concert for the Parent Teacher Student Association. This year's program entitled "Christmas Time At South" was another big success. In the spring the department elected representatives to the summer institute at Interlochen. The opportunity is given so that they may further their musical studies.

The vocal music department, which is led by Mr. Dean Van Velsen, had a very active year. Choir performances were highlighted by the Little Choir, a selected group of singers, and by the senior boys quartet and girls trio. The quartet was composed of Arnold Boezhaart, Dale Holloway, Dave Bentley and Mike Lawton. Diahn Clayton, Sue McLenithan and Nancy Richardson were the members of the senior trio.

At Christmas time the department presented a delightful assembly for the student body. The choirs also performed on television during Christmas week as participants in a carol festival that featured various high schools in the Grand Rapids area. Throughout the year the choirs and glee club performed at churches, schools and city functions.

After the holiday break the members of the choir began work on their own recording which they offered for sale to the students at school. Their record presented for listening pleasure both religious and secular selections by the South High choir. The record sale was a complete success for the department.

South's Boys Quartet composed of Mike Lawton, Dave Bentley, Dale Holloway, and Arnie Boezaart practice with Mr. VanVelson for a coming performance.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps was organized to promote an active interest in the military welfare of the nation and to give members of the student body a chance to learn the fundamentals of military drill. Their many services to the student body plus their routine duties have given the cadets experience in giving and taking orders. They find this training not only interesting but very beneficial for future military training in the army. The ROTC now consists of approximately a hundred and thirty cadets and performs such duties as flag-raising and marching in patriotic parades. In order to participate in the Bars and Chevrons organization, whose purpose is to discuss the defects of the companies and ways and means of altering them, you must be at least a corporal.

This year six girls have become members of the ROTC and wear the regulation uniforms. However, this is not a new procedure for in 1918 there was a whole company which performed girls military tactics.

The two main events held each year by the ROTC are military ball and field day. Each year, preparations by one of the three schools South, Union, or Creston which participate are carried out. Each school has its own military ball queen and the queen of the battalion is selected at the military ball by the instructors wives. The ranks held by the queen and her court are captain and first leiutenants. The second event was held on April 22 and 23 at South Field. This is a federal inspection on the annual field day in which our Company B under the guidance of Sergeant Hendryx participates. The world famous forty-piece marching kilt bagpipe unit of Michigan State University played at the inspection. Awards are given for best drilled squad, best drilled platoon, best drilled cadets, drill team, combat squad, and tent pitching. The inspection offers a hard field of competition. Also all officers get commission certificates. To raise funds for the military ball, boots, and ribbons they hold annual candy sales.

For the second straight year, South has won the City Rifle Championship by placing four members in the top six. Individual honors go out to Paul Parcher, who won first place. The others were: J. Misiak, B. Merritt, G. Tardy, and R. VanWormer.

Junior High Council Finds Leadership

Attendence is good for the junior high's student councils weekly meetings and planning sessions.

The Junior High Student Council here at South helps to prepare students for leadership in the senior classes. Through this governing body, the students have an opportunity to learn the qualities of democracy and sound leadership. This year the group of junior high leaders were elected in the autumn. The council is under the leadership of Mr. Mangus. The members of the council must help to organize and support the functions of the junior high school. The council also tries to instill enthusiasm throughout the junior high sports and for the South High varsity teams.

This year's student council did a good job. At the pep assemblies the freshmen were behind the varsity all the way; the council has also promoted better care of the junior cafeteria. They have stressed keeping the cafeteria clean, neat and orderly. The council has conducted several doughnut sales this year and the profits have gone toward a special junior high project concerning the cafeterias. The council held their annual gathering this year to continue discussion on junior high participation in school.

The Junior High Student Council Leaders check agenda before meeting time.

Debate Team Out-Talks Opponents

Row 1: Steve Brown, Ken Faux, Fred Frankema, Jim Baker; Row 2: Ruth Morris, Mable Tate, Mr. Parks, Russ Hammond.

Ace debaters Ken Faux and Steve Brown formulate strategy with Mr. Parks.

The debate team was reorganized this year by Mr. Parks and has had a fairly successful year. Because of the decline in interest and enthusiasm in forensics last year, there was an unsuccessful debate team. Formerly, South was City Champions for two years. The team, however, now with renewed interest in the form of more members, does participate in city and district competition. The team is separated into two groups, the affirmative and negative side. These debates are divided into A and B teams according to ability and experience. The subject of this year's debates was Nuclear Weapons Control. Our most successful team was Ken Faux and Steve Brown who won six of their eight debates. These two debaters finished high in the city league both on individual and team points.

Unlike other clubs, they do not have rigid meetings but meet as often as necessary, especially the week before a city debate. Ken Faux is the most experienced debater having debated for four years. The team consists of four seniors and four juniors. The debater learns, from his debate experience, how to recite and participate in the activities of his classes more effectively.

P.T.S.A. Aids School Activities

The Parent Teacher Student Association of South High completed another successful year. The organization was under the capable leadership of Mr. Donald K. Risser; the association worked hard to strengthen the relationship between the home and the school. This year the teachers were represented by Mrs. Miriam Anderson, the junior class counselor at South, and by Mr. Arland Abbott, a teacher and the athletic director at school. Representing the student body were student vice presidents, Glenetta Miller and David Koster.

In late October, the association sponsored an open house which gave the parents an opportunity to meet the teachers. One of the next activities came after a suggestion by Mr. Tripplett, a South High faculty member. The PTSA aided at the athletic games by providing hosts who worked to keep student conduct under control and promoted safety and understanding. This new project was a success and it will be continued at the future South High athletic contests. This year about thirty men participated in the program and the sponsors hope to interest others for next season.

Spectra Staff at Work..

It takes a lot of time, preparation, and experience to put out a yearbook. This year's Spectra staff has plenty of all three. Mrs. Vis is the new advisor and the co-editors are Cindy Husted and Dave Foley. Working on the other sections are Cath Hoffman and Kathy Hofferth on seniors; Doug Bronkema and Henry Vazquez on sports; Ken Faux on faculty; Ruth Morris and Mable Tate on organizations; Steve Hoyle, Ilona Sabo, and Dorothy Stewart on underclassmen; and Randy Clough helps Dave Foley with photography.

The Spectra is begun in September and has to be completed by April. This makes it necessary for everyone to put in a lot of extra time, not just one class period a day. At one time or another during the year, each member of the staff has to spend after school hours working to complete his section. The staff also attends seminars, and classes on yearbook construction. A lot of time is spent but it is all rewarding in many ways.

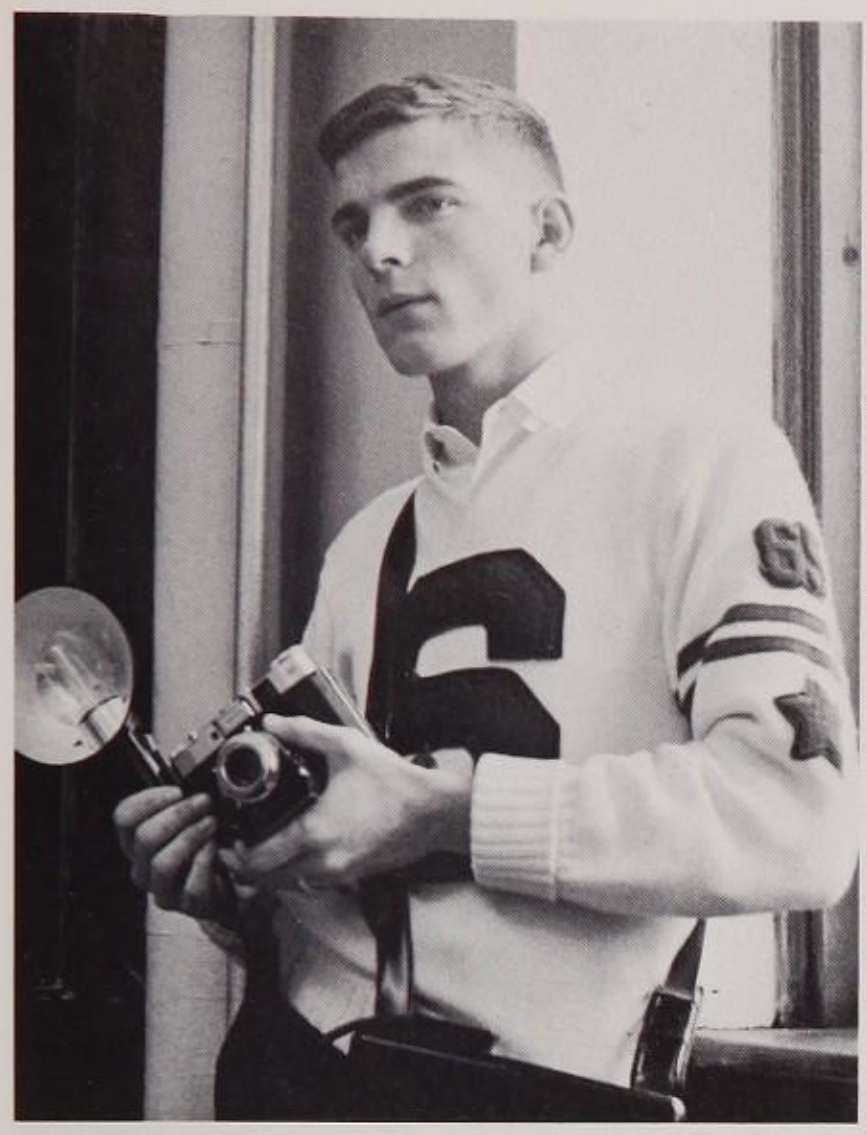
Advisor, Mrs. Vis, looks over Ken Faux' faculty section.

Randy Clough, photographer, watches Doug Bronkema and Henry Vazquez paste their sports section.



Dave Foley is both co-editor and chief photographer.

Working on the senior section are Kathy Hofferth and Cathy Hoffman.

The organization section was handled by Mable Tate and Ruth Morris.

Underclassmen section is a big job for Steve Hoyle, Dorothy Stewart, and Ilona Sabo.

Seniors Prepare for that "Big Night"

As Seniors listen to the words "The party's over" from the Senior play they are reminded of another sort of party that is about to end. Souveniers from Homecoming, football games, basketball games, Prom, the Senior Play, Sweetheart Swirl, shows, and other odds and end, fill scrapbooks, cover bulletin boards, or just remain memories. This was the Senior Year, the end of High School, and somewhere back in the closet or the mind, are remembrances from the Junior year, and snapshots of "when we were just Sophomores."

Plans for future education are settled, prospects for jobs are secured, and all that remains is to present the mock elections and discover who the Best All-Around Boy and Girl, and American Legion winners are on Class Night, put on that white cap and gown, and walk up and get the diploma. Complaints about cafeteria lunches, stuffy classrooms, and certain "friends" suddenly cease, as Seniors begin to take a last look at their High School days, while they are still here. And too soon comes the time when each hand is shaken, each diploma given, and the word "congratulations" becomes familiar.

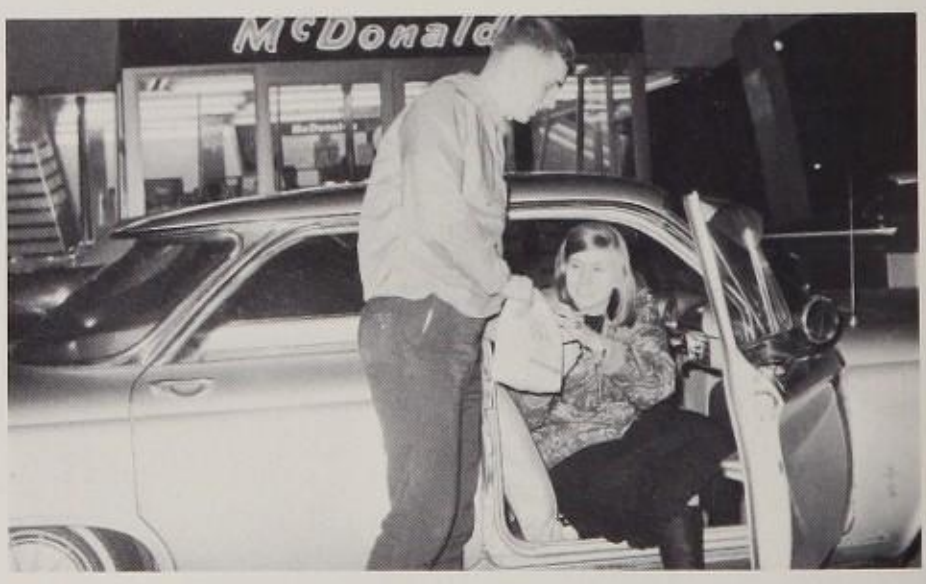
Sight - Seeing at South

The new student gazed at madras clad, sockless boys, chewing on Tootsie Roll Pops, and understood the crunching chorus that he heard. The "Tinkerbells" passed him wearing baggy shifts, textured hose, and carrying their books at the side like boys, muttering phrases like, "it's hurtin'" and "that was poor." The Tinkerbell-bun hairdos of the girls seemed more appropriate for the boys, whose Beatle haircuts, trademark of the latest singing group, looked like a waterfall that fell. The heavy odors of Tabu and Tigress perfumes, mingled with those of English Leather and Jade East after shave lotion, dizzied the newcomer as he searched for a place to sit. All chairs, steps, and floor space were occupied by laughing pupils reading Peanuts, Walden Two, or scanning copies of Hamlet before a first hour test. In various corners, teenagers were debating important issues such as where to have the next "open" party, or the advantages and disadvantages of Barry Goldwater. Teachers were busily thwarting the valiant attemps of the bolder students to go up the down stairs, while seniors were being jostled into the huge senior session room, Churm Hall. The stranger began to adjust himself to school life. He sat through freezing, rainy, football games, divided his time between MacDonalds drive-in and the library, and even caught a cold during the first week of school. The boy took the unrequired but rewarding trip to the Shakespearean festival in Stratford, Ontario, and sat in on the Human Relations meetings, in which negro and white students discussed problems. It was only after his shaky rendition of the "Dog" and the "Uncle Willy" at a Roger's Plaza dance, that the new boy judged, from the standing ovation which he received, that he was a part of South High School. Now the boy buys Tootsie Roll Pops wholesale, sells them for a profit, and is definitely considered "in."

John, Carol, and Bob contribute to the "crunching chorus."



Marge and Phil spend time at "Mac's."

"Yeah, yeah, yeah," scream the Beatles.

Judie's tinkerbell-bun hairdo matches Denny's "Beatle" cut.

Dawn carries her books at the side, "like boys do".

Todd does his best to control an early fall cold.

Myra and Mike display one of the dance crazes.

Jim, Ruth, Jeanette, Rick exhibit latest fashion fads.

Mary, Dave, Dave, and Harrison, use up all available space.

The Senior Class Sponsors, Mr. Veenkamp, Mr. Monson, Mr. Lugthart, Mr. Ferguson, and Mr. Mangus, take time out of a busy day to advise and help our class. Not pictured is Mr. Zimilis, who stepped in mid-year as Class advisor for Mr. Monson.

Posed over the victory bell, Ken Faux and Dave Foley discuss the many problems of the Senior Class.

June of 1964 brought not only spring fever but the election of Senior Class officers. Each candidate had to maintain a C average and have a petition signed by fifty-two class members and two teachers. The office-seekers campaigned, the class voted, the returns were tallied, and from a class of two hundred-fifty students, six officers were elected.

As president, Ken Faux runs the overall organization of the Senior Class. The vice-president, Dave Foley, assists Ken and heads the Prom committees. Cindy Husted, secretary, takes notes and handles the correspondence with other schools. The treasurer, Sherry Glocheski, balances the books, takes care of Senior Class cards, and records the class funds which are so important for a successful school year. Cathy Hoffman and Myra Lewis advise their fellow students and count the ballots for elections.

With the aid of Mr. Monson, the class advisor, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Veenkamp, and Mr. Lugthart, our session room teachers, the class officers of 1964-65 helped to make our Senior year a memorable one.

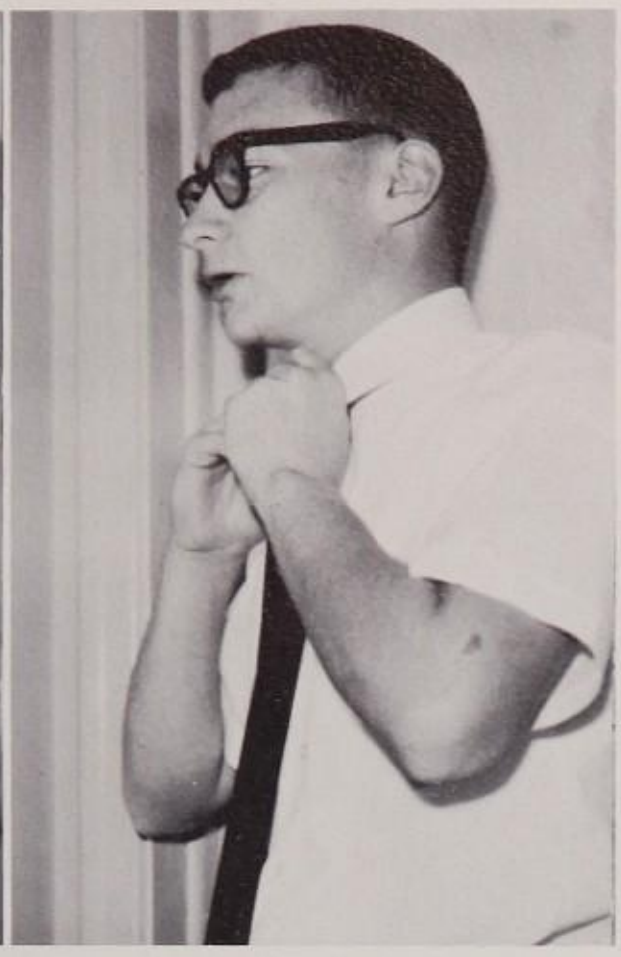
The student advisors, Cathy Hoffman, and Myra Lewis, type out final results of the D.A.R. balloting.

We Present the 1964 Homecoming

The South High Trojans used speedy running and good passing to defeat the Union Red Hawks 13-0 at our Homecoming Game, October 23, 1964. Union had four chances to score but our defense held strong. The South High forces gained 219 yards in rushing and 54 yards in passes, to Union's 77 yards on the ground and 51 yards in the air.

Late in the first quarter the Trojans raced the ball to Union's 6-yard line and carried it into the end zone to score the first touchdown of the game. The nearest the Red Hawks came to their goal was in the same period when they marched to the 12 yard line. The quarterback sent a pass to the end but it was short of a first down and South took over the ball. Near the end of the third quarter, we scored our second touchdown. The 6 points was the result of steady drive through the center and a thirty-nine yard pass which was caught on the ten yard line and sped into the end zone. This time the extra point was good.

The victory over Union gave the Trojans the right to keep the traditional Red Jug for the second year. The game was highlighted by the halftime Homecoming ceremonies, which ironically ran overtime penalizing the South High Team fifteen yards at the beginning of the second half. However, the Trojans did not let this stop them and went on to conquer the Union Red Hawks.



Jim Plafkin, full of Thanksgiving turkey, ties his tie in preparation for the Homecoming dance of 1964.

Lorraine Rittenger, perched high on a ladder, hangs the leaves that the rest of the decorations committee is making.

Lynne Stanton consults with Mr. Monson.

The heroes of the 1964 Homecoming are not only the rugged football players who brought back the victory over Union, or the honored Homecoming court. The various committees and the people who attend the game and the dance are equally important.

Since September, the Homecoming committees, headed by their own individual chairmen and controlled by the general chairman, Mary Lynne Stanton have been busily organizing and preparing for the Homecoming. The dance, however, would not be a success if not supported by the student body and the alumni.

From the work of the committees, and the time and support of the pupils and graduates, emerges the Homecoming dance of 1964, the "Whispering Winds."

The election of the 1964 Homecoming Court took place during the third week in September. Each senior boy voted for one girl and each girl for one boy. The first ballots counted, the class voted again and elected five girls and five boys, who comprised our Homecoming Court. The following day the students elected a King and a Queen from the members of the Court.

Our Queen, Barb DeRuiter, manages to take college preparatory courses while working in the attendance office in the afternoons. Barb is majoring in science and English, and she would like to be a medical technician when she completes her education. Our King, Lee Lafayette, was rated as one of the nation's top basketball players. Lee is not only active in basketball, but also in track and Varsity Club. Although many colleges are bidding for his application, Lee has not yet decided which one he will attend.

Members of the Queen's Court, Donna Wiltrakis, Mary Whitley, Helen Verwillegen, and Diahn Clayton, are very active in class activities as are most of the members of Lee's Court which includes Fred Munch, Harrison Jones, Mike Simonson, and Bob Phillips.

"The Bells Are Ringing"

Singing Chorus: P. Carino, M. Armour, C. Husted, C. Hoffman, M. Anderson, S. Prussner, R. Welch, M. Rudnik, B. DeRuiter, M. Lewis, C. Morgan, C. Hill, S. Hilbrands, I. Belser, D. Bentley, M. Simonson, A. Boezaart, P. Mesler, J. Whittington, J. Jones, J. Miner, B. Leslie, J. Stowell, D. Parfitt, B. Ray, G. Ritzema, R. Rasmussen.

The Senior Play Selection Committee decided to put on an operetta this year instead of a dramatic play. From many musicals, The Bells Are Ringing was selected. This show played on broadway with Judy Holiday and Sidney Chaplin, and with the same leading lady playing opposite Dean Martin in the movie version.

Judy Hoffman is the heroine of the South High production of The Bells Are Ringing. Judy was chosen from many girls to play the part of Ella Peterson, a telephone operator who can't help getting involved in other's lives. Judy has had no previous experience in drama except being a member of the drama club for one year. She has taken public speaking and has sung in the High School Choir and Little Choir.

Starring as Jeffrey Moss, a playwright who "plays but doesn't write," is Todd Rich. Todd was a dancer in last year's operetta and has been a member of the High School Choir for two years. Todd also plays the clarinet in the band and pep band. Todd has taken a two-week course in drama at the Civic Theater, and has worked as a part-time radio announcer this year.

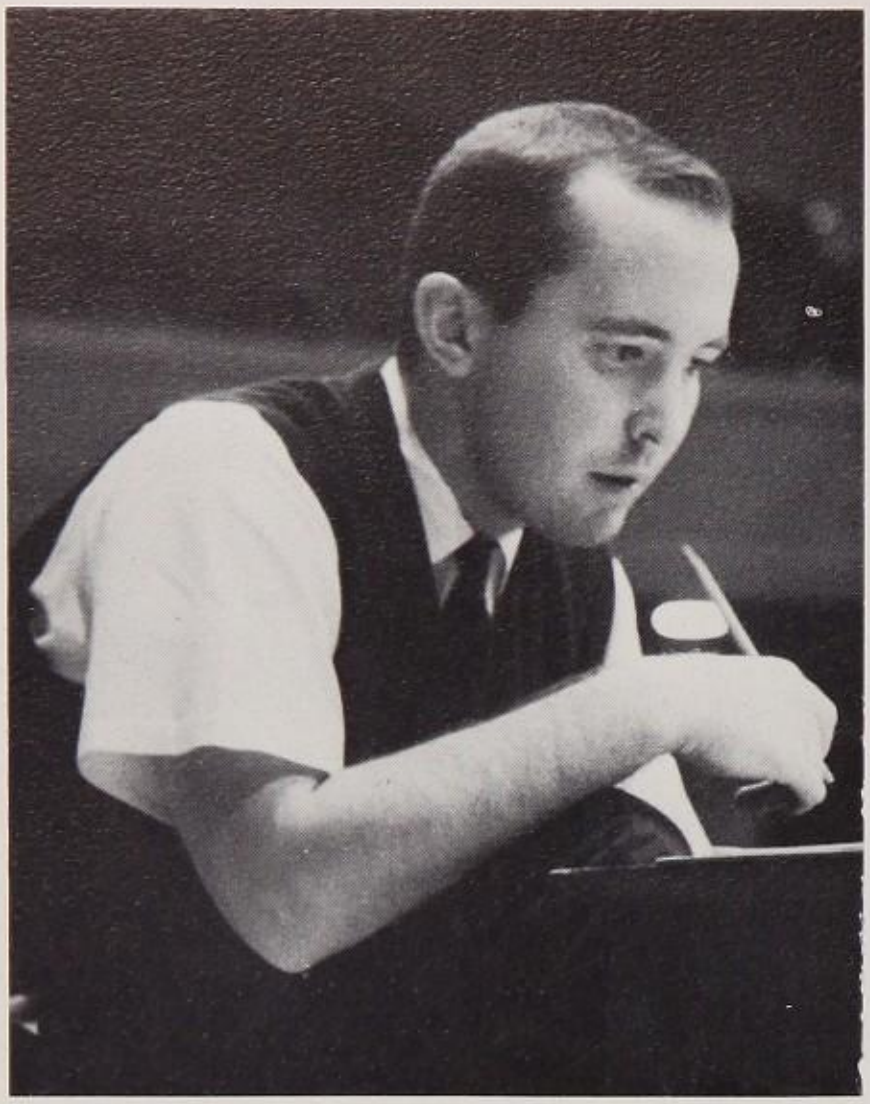
Mr. Corl has taken full charge of the musical production, aided with the music by Mr. Van-Velsen and Mr. Berry. Mr. Corl has his bachelors and masters degrees in economics and teaches that subject along with American history, Government, and modern problems. He has had much dramatic experience, participating in two Civic Theater productions and helping with two others. Helping Mr. Corl are Sue McLenithan, who had a major role in last year's operetta and has taken choir and dancing for several years; and Myra Lewis, senior class advisor, and also a member of the Senior Choir. Eileen Carpenter has handled all choreography and helped with blocking scenes. She has taken dancing for nine years, and has taught dancing at Osterhouse Studio. Miss Carolyn Sadenwater, former South High student, is also helping Mr. Corl, while she student teaches English.

The play, given at the South High Auditorium on March 26 and 27, has involved a great deal of work, not only from the lead characters but from every member of the cast and stage crew. The reward for this effort is seen on "show nights" when the Senior Class presents The Bells Are Ringing – a smash hit.

Dick Canter, musical director, Myra Lewis, student producer, Sue McLenithan, stage manager, and Eileen Carpenter, choreographer, discuss the music for the Senior Play.

Bobby Ray shakes hands with Todd Rich in "Hello, Hello There!" while interested subway passengers, Cathy Hoffman, Arnold Boezaart, and Judy Hoffman look on.

Steve Hilbrands, Diane Maxim, Arnold Boezaart, Raleigh Rasmussen, Mike Simonson, Jeanette Paganelli, Dave Parfitt, and Helen Verwillegen dance to "Midas Touch."



Mr. Corl, director-producer of Bells Are Ringing, leads the orchestra in one of the numbers.

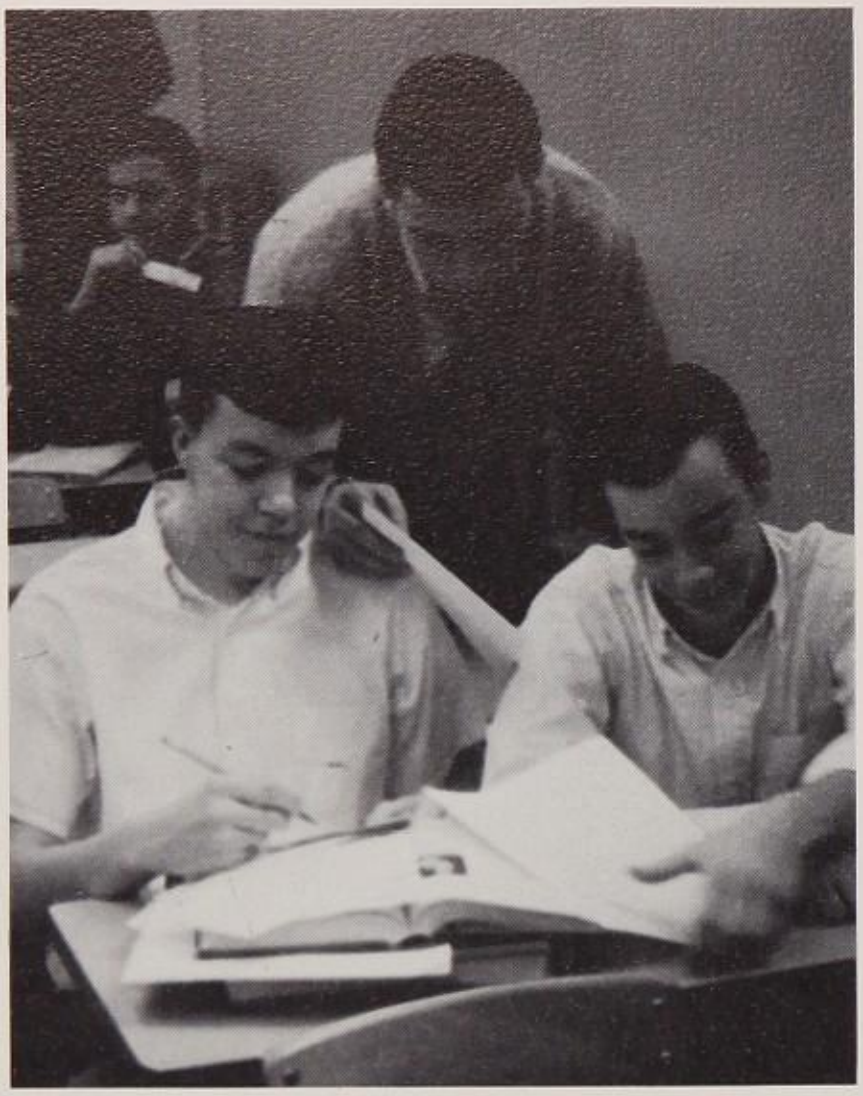
Seniors Elect Royalty



Larry Vollink, Jack Stowell, and Jack VanOeveron receive ballots for the Prom Court elections in session room.

Elections for Class Sweethearts take place in February. Each class elects a girl to represent them at the Sweetheart Swirl. The class works as a unit, building a float on which their Sweetheart will be crowned. The floats are judged by faculty members and the prize winner gets a ten-dollar donation. Stanley Atkins was the Senior Class Sweetheart this year, and reigned over her class on a "garden scene" float. Stanley is an active member of the Pep Club and helped with the make-up for the Senior Play.

A more restricted honor is the selection of the Military Ball Queen. This girl is chosen by the boys involved in R.O.T.C. The Senior Queen presides over those from other grades, in drills and inspections; each girl being required to participate in these, and each having her one military uniform. The Senior Queen also reigns over the Military Ball in April, which is a city-wide affair. Michelle Rudnik, the Military Ball Queen of 1965, is a busy member of her class also. She too, takes part in Pep Club activities, was a member of the Cast for the Senior Play and encourages all Civic minded activities. South High School's graduating class is very proud of its Sweetheart and Military Ball Queen.

Military Ball Queen, Michelle Rudnik gets the official salute from Tyree Anderson.

A new court was introduced at South High School this year, the Prom Court. Due to previous restrictions placed on the All-Sports Court balloting, this court was replaced by the Spring Court or Prom Court.

Ruth Welch, a leader in class activities, and possessing uncanny singing talent is the Queen. Ed Matthews, King, is an excellent football quarterback, and outstanding basketball guard. Other members of the Queen's court include: Cindy Husted, yearbook co-editor; Judy Hoffman, who played the lead in the Senior Play; Sylvia Prussner, an active Honor Society member; and Michelle Rudnik, also elected Military Ball Queen. On the King's court are Ed White, an advanced French student; Rick Cain, a cast member of the Senior Play; Steve Hilbrands, also a cast member; and Dave Foley, record-holder in Cross Country.

The Senior Prom was held May 28, over which this court reigned. The general chairmen for this dance, Sylvia Prussner and Pat Carlstrom, did all they could to make the dance the success it was.

Although this court was secondary in honors to the Homecoming Court, it should not be slighted in recognition. From the efforts of these versatile students, and others like them, emerges a school with great potential.

We Salute the Scholars of 1964

Top scholastic honors this year go to ten outstanding individuals. Heading the list with straight four point averages are Jim Plafkin and Bruce Leslie, while Dave Koster follows with a 3.9 average; the lowest grade average among these ten students is an A minus. These students have shown diligence in study habits. Their grades reflect the way they work, and the way they contribute that "extra" amount to everything they do. These pupils are not only scholastic leaders, but each one has his own hobbies and extra-curricular activities.

Susan Usadel has taken commercial courses at South High and is an active member of the Commercial Club. Mary Slotsema works in the library and is also an avid sports fan, herself participating in girls basketball and softball. A leader in the Future Teachers Club and French Club, Beth Humphreys also sews much of her own wardrobe. Randy DeWitt works part-time at a gas station, learning more about the mechanics of cars, while he majors in mathematics and science. Pat Roempke is a "summer sports" fan, skiing, sailing and swimming the whole season at her cottage on Gun Lake. During school hours she works part-time in the attendance office. Fish are Dave Foley's chief interest. On the side, he is yearbook photographer and co-editor, treasurer of the Varsity Club, and a track star. Mary Anderson is an active Pep Club member, and shows exceeding patience by selling tickets to all basketball and football games. Dave Koster works in the White and White Pharmacy and takes a night class course at Junior College in Computor Mathematics. Bruce Leslie spends his spare weekends out of doors hunting and attends many concerts and plays. Jim Plafkin has been a skillful baseball pitcher for three years, and is now taking the Computor Mathematics course also.

These ten students have emerged from the two-hundred and fifty to take the top scholastic honors in the class. Contrary to previous public opinion these people possess a variety of interests; this variety, combined with hard work, has made them indeed, the "top" ten.

Sue Usadel sells commercial club "cinnamon twists."

South harrier, Dan Holmes, sprints toward the finish.

Renewed interest in distance running at South High led to our first victory in three years. Dave Foley, team captain, qualifying for the state finals led the team in both speed and spirit to a close win over West Catholic. Though this proved to be the only victory, a large and young squad give high hopes for success next season. The team should field good depth and speed with returning lettermen: Rick White, Doug Taylor, Dan Holmes, Dave Rowe, and Tom Woolpert. Several other members of the team have shown promise, and will also be returning next year.

Coach Jackson receives pressbox report.

A slow start produced an unsuccessful season for the South High Trojans. After tasting the bitterness of defeat, the Trojans, led by All City Players, Steve Giammona and Brad Martin, team captain, charged to victory over arch-rival, Catholic Central, and Union High School only to fall victim to the city champions, Ottawa Hills.

Despite the season's two wins and five loses, the Trojans never lacked in spirit or enthusiasm. Elected most valuable player, John Krestakos, was one of the main reasons South never lost her drive in the straining moments of play.

South Scores Its Sixth Consecutive

The 1964-65 cagers compiled an impressive 15-4 record in storming their sixth straight city championship. This string of titles is a feat which no other basketball team has ever matched in the Grand Rapids area. Much credit must be given to Mr. Genger, who did a fine job in his first year as varsity coach at South.

South ran into a good deal of tough competition during the course of the season and ultimately was forced to share the title with Ottawa Hills, a team which proved a nemesis to the Trojan cagers. This season will be remembered in years to come as one which afforded many thrill-packed moments; there were no less than five games in which victory was not assured until the final minutes of play.

Although South could boast of having one of the nation's top players in Lee Lafayette, it was teamwork which won our games. Ed Mathews proved a consistent scorer with his long out-court points and all-around good ballhandling. The mid-season discovery of Fred Zollicofer was a needed booster, as he quickly showed that he was one of the fastest guards in the city. Junior Doug Taylor established himself as a good bet for future All-City honors by contributing many outstanding performances on the court. The defensive play of Bob Veersma was a deciding factor in several close games as he provided needed rebounding. Dick Brown deserves acclaim for his driving layup shots which aided the teams scoring surges. Ken Formsma and Jim Burgraaf showed plenty of poise and skill and their return in the fall should give the squad added strength next season.

Strong teams are virtually assured in coming years as a result of the fine playing of the underclassman teams. The junior varsity placed third in the team standings with a 14 and 4 record. Steve Drew, Don Moore, Randy Clough, Don Johnson, Terry Sueing, Ben Wilkes, and Cleo Cross were the regulars in Coach Biddick's lineup. Cross and Wilkes were elevated to the varsity for tournament play.

Towering Willie Guyton and scrappy Larry Whitley were standouts on Mr. Le Compte's freshman team which won 7 of 8 games for a second place finish.

Championship With Aid From Big Lee

Through the years South has produced many outstanding basketball players, however, it is generally acknowledged that 6'6" Lee Lafayette is the finest of all Trojan Cagers. In three years on the varsity team, Lee amassed a total of 1,538 points and was the citys scoring leader in 1964 and 1965. As a senior he averaged thirty-one points and twenty-five rebounds a game in addition he set the league scoring record by hitting 54 points against West Catholic. For his fine play Lee was named to the All-City squad all three years, the All-State team two years, and as a senior he was placed on the first team of the pre-season All-American team. WZZM and WOOD both honored the South star with their Player of the Year awards. Although statistics proved Lee to be outstanding, he also is noted for his conduct on the court and was the recipient of the Dan Nameth Sportsmanship Award. The school is proud of Lee Lafayette's accomplishments both as an athlete and as a person; the student body showed its appreciation by unanimously agreeing to retire his number 33 uniform.

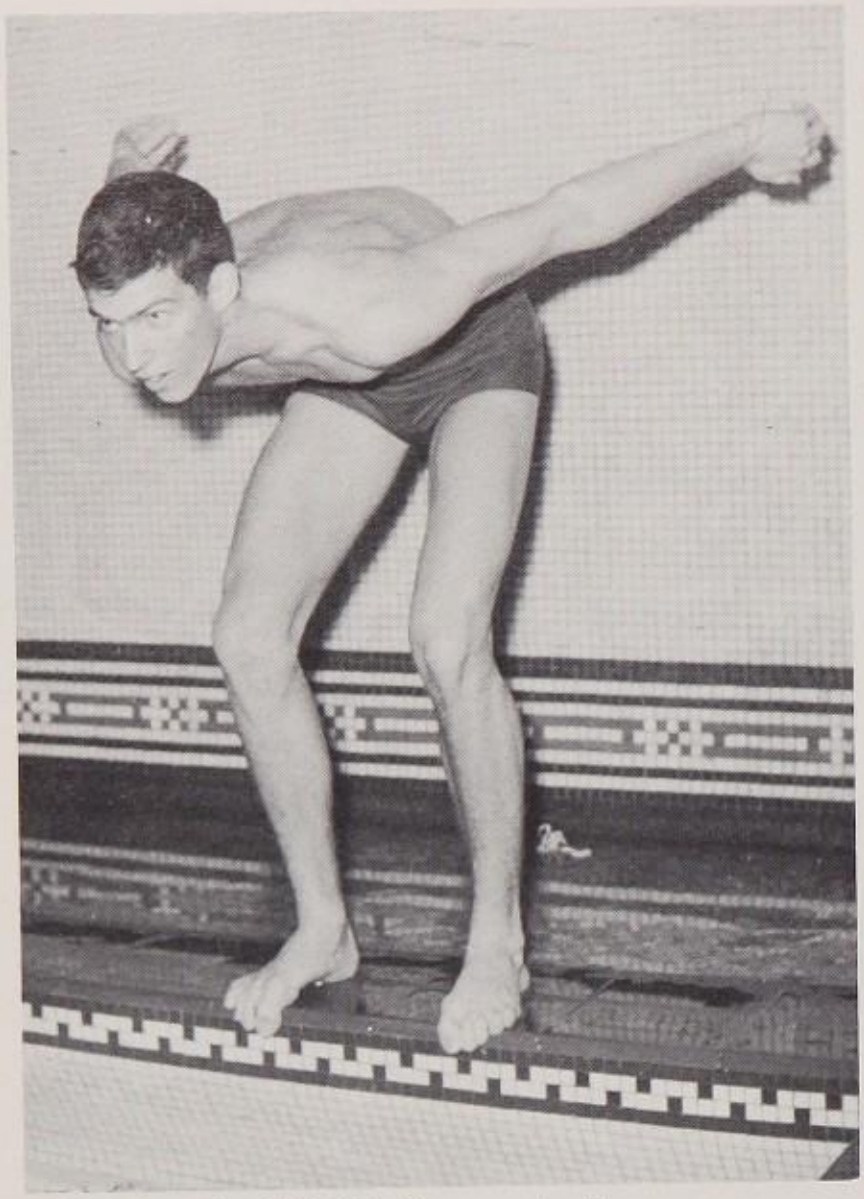
Improvement Marks 1965 Swim Team



Team Captain Dick TenHoor waits for start.

A disappointing season record is not a true indication of this year's swimmers. Mr. Mangus, who took over the coaching reigns this year proved himself an expert at guiding the squad through their season. Team captain Dick TenHoor was the team's scoring leader as he was undefeated in both the 100 yard backstroke and 200 yard freestyle. In the city meet Dick TenHoor continued his supremacy in these events by splashing to a first place in the backstroke with a 1:02.7 clocking and a fourth place finish in the freestyle. Next year's squad is counting heavily upon the continuing improvement of Tom Reyburn, Dave Hatch, Pete Thompson, Dave Fitzgerald, and Larry Schaidt.

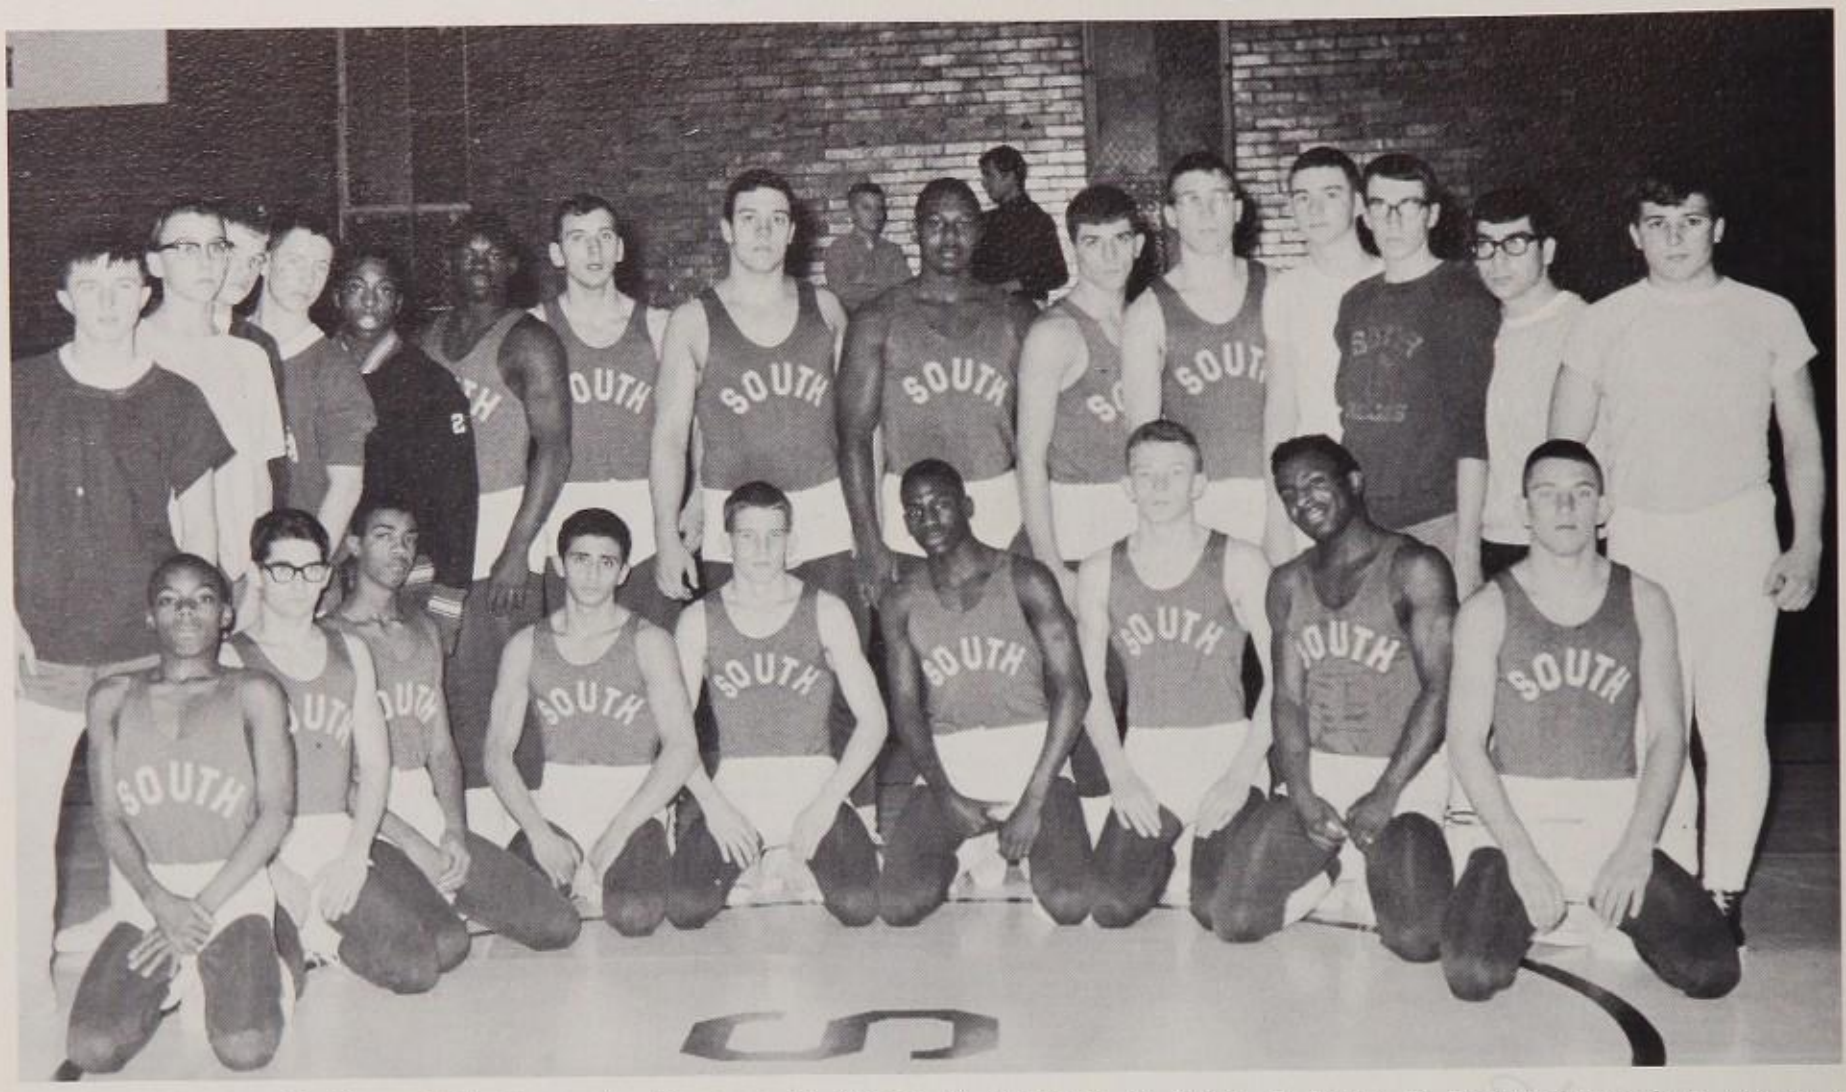
Matmen Grapple Through Winning



Row 1: C. Whitley, D. Shepard, J. Carter, L. Figueroa, S. Waters, V. Houston, B. Drost, R. Love, D. Bentley; Row 2: G. Moser, T. Baarda, T. Haan, W. Bentley, C. Sims, M. VanHouton, B. Martin, E. Mosley, D. Lunceford, M. Hikade, G. Snider, M. Cody, A. Siciliano, S. Suggit.

Christian grappler baffled by acrobatic Ed Mosely.

Under the direction of first year coach, Mr. Kellogg, South High grapplers climaxed an impressive season by winning the city meet. Wes Armstrong, Rocky Love, and co-captain Brad Martin paced the team by winning first in their respective weight divisions. Other wrestlers who figured in the scoring were: Steve Waters, Dave Bentley, Gale Moser, Leo Figueroa, Bob Drost, Ed Mosley and co-captain Mike VanHouten. Brad Martin qualified for the state meet by taking top honors in the heavyweight division of the regional meet.

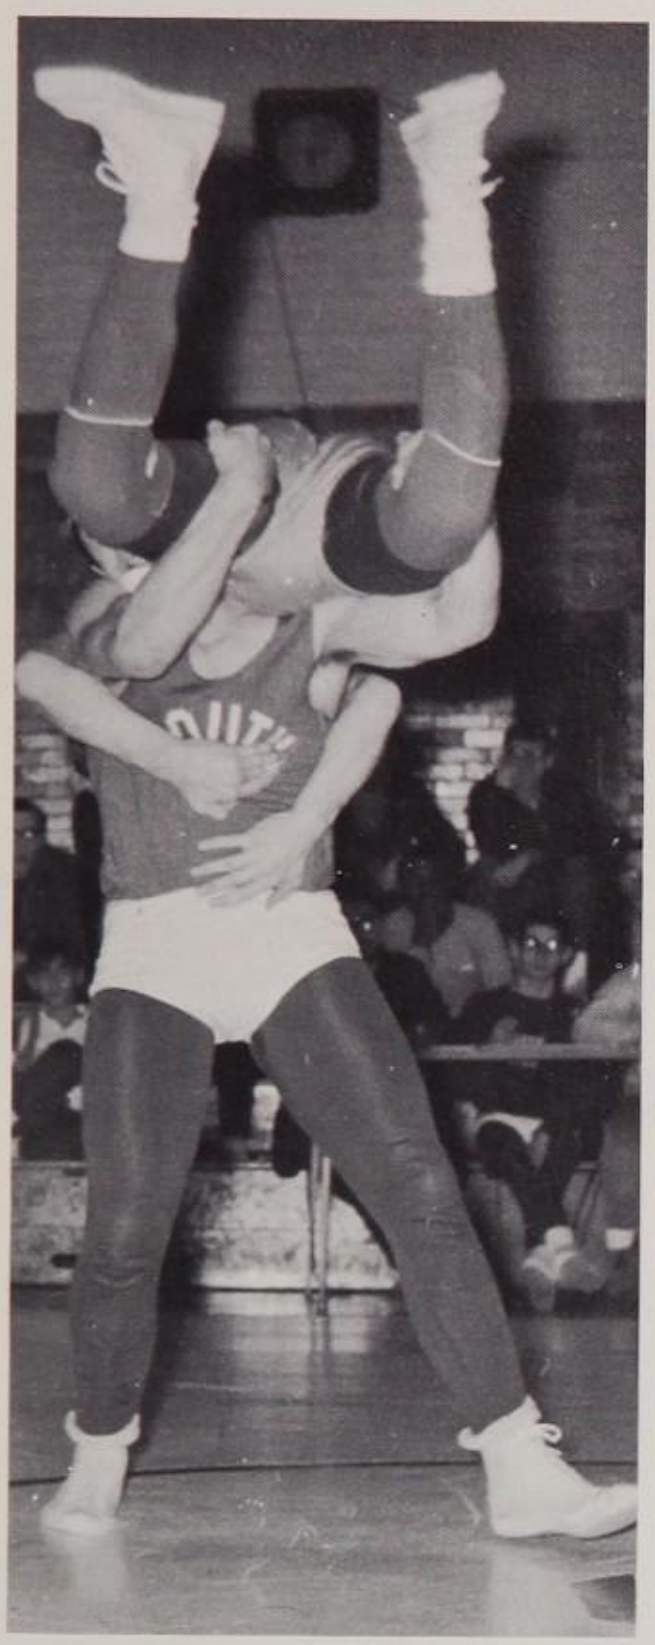
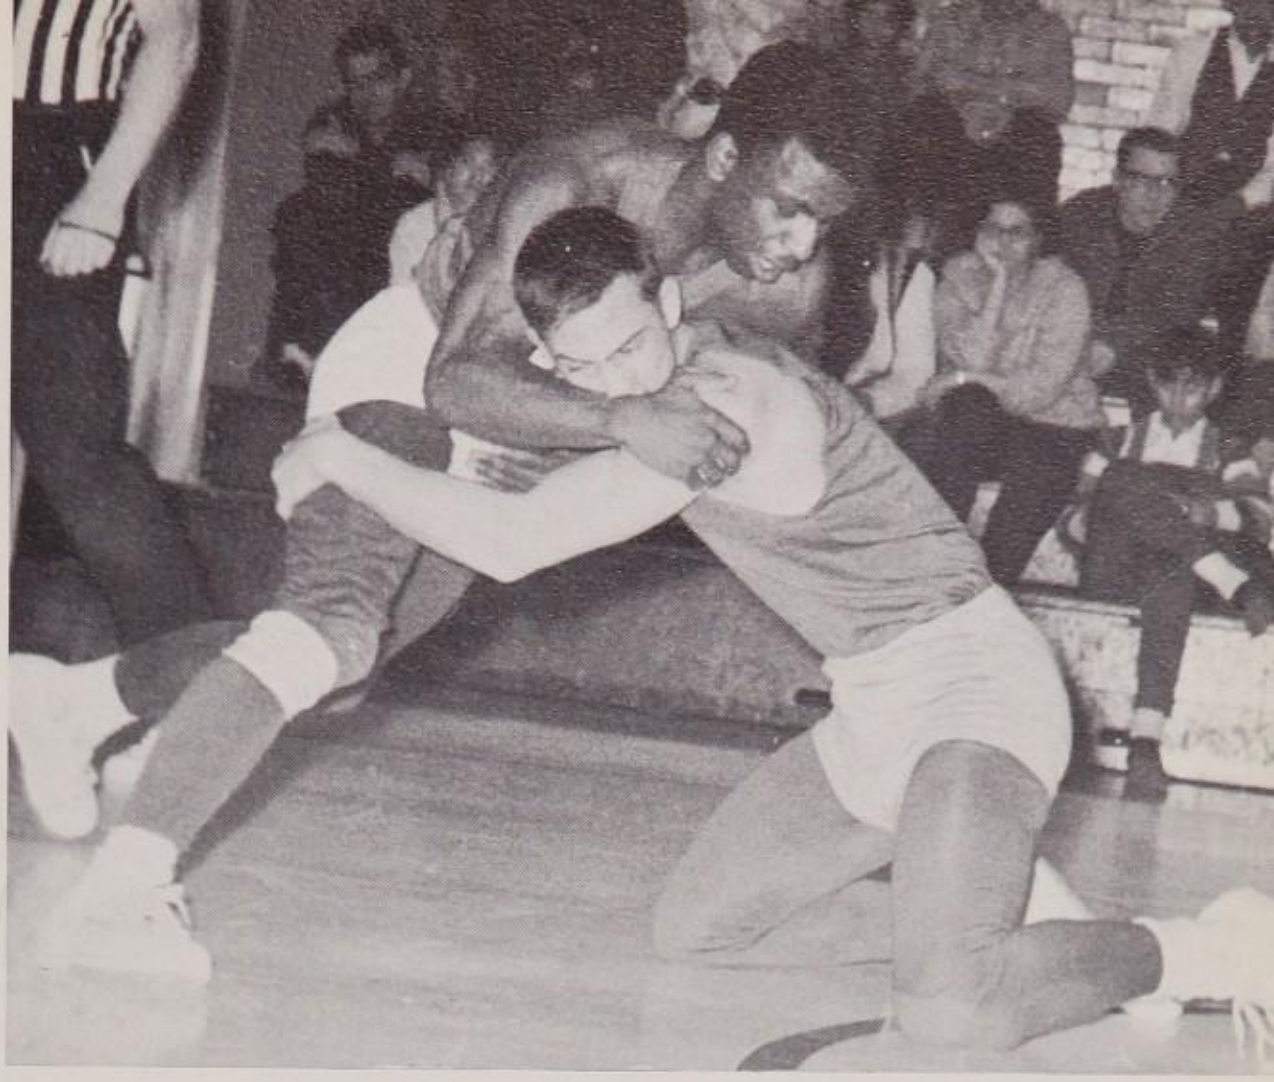
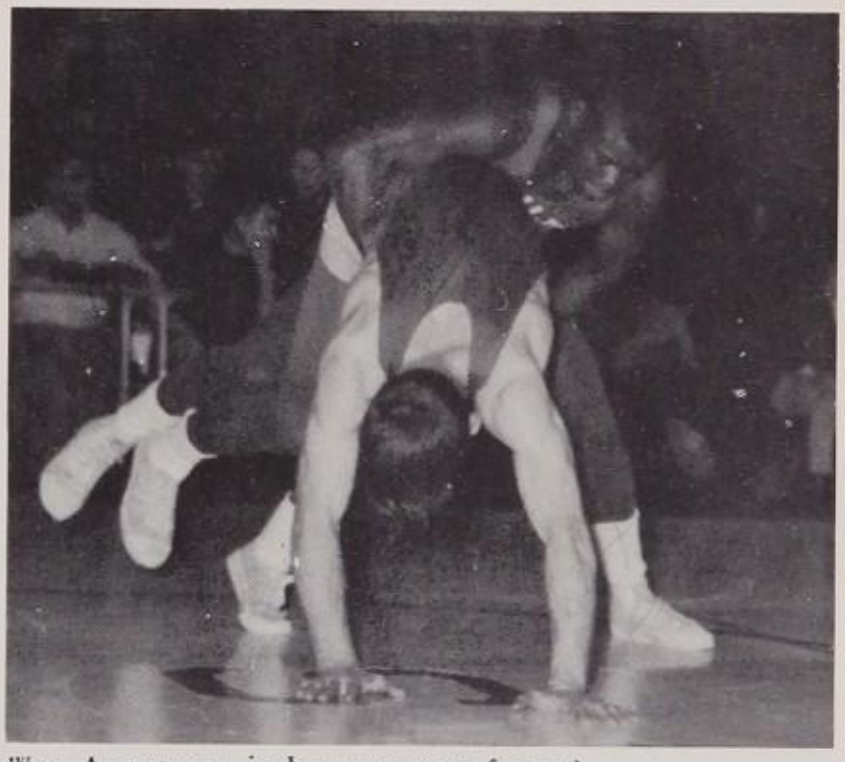
Schedule



Brad Martin holds his man overhead.



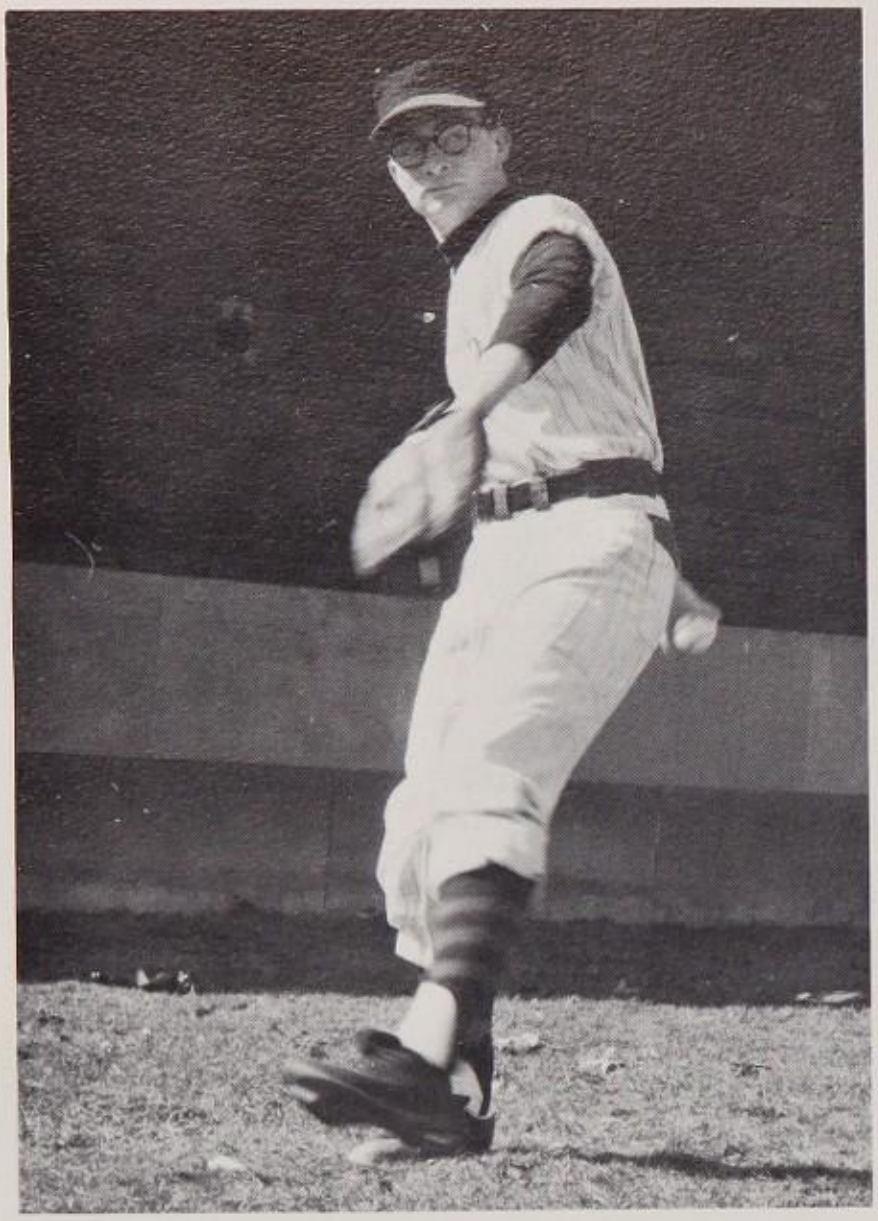
Intent crowd watches Rocky Love wear out foe.



Wes Armstrong jerks opponent from the mat.

Coach Kellogg shouts encouragement.

Mike VanHouten rides helpless opponent.



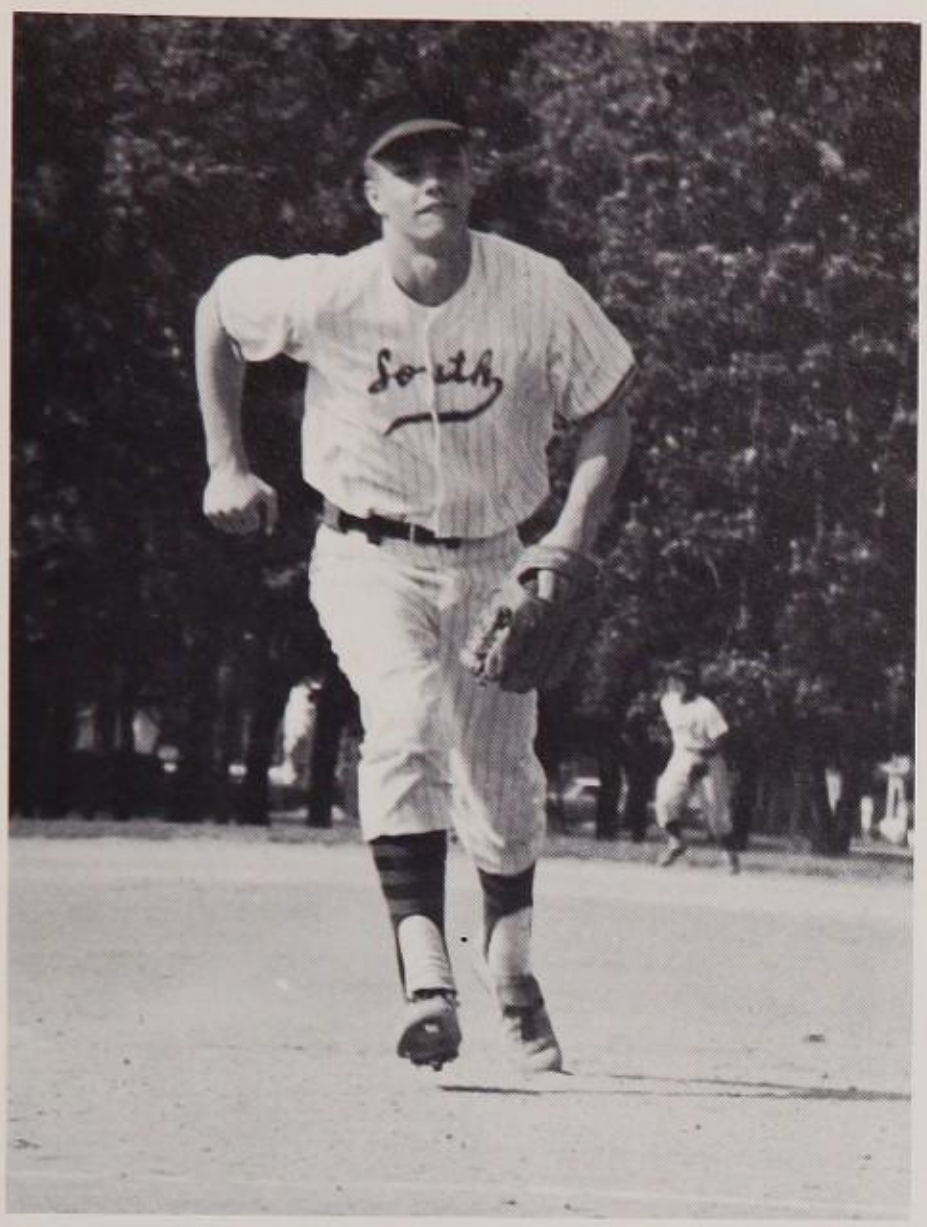
Much of South's pitching strength will center around Jim Plafkin's performances on the mound.

Coach Biddick opened baseball practice with a week of rugged conditioning drills and strenuous warmup exercises designed to strengthen the teams hitting and fielding. Gradually the initial turnout of forty candidates dwindled, through cuts and dropouts, until it leveled at about twenty on the eve of the first game.

This year's squad has the potential of being a top city power. Several lettermen are expected to carry the hitting load and provide defensive skill in the field. John Krestakos, a power slugger, operates as the team's field general and catcher. Steve Giamonna handles shortstop and is a noted power hitter. As a smooth fielding third baseman and consistent batter Mike Simonson is a valuable veteran. Two juniors Ken Farr and Inman Kiniard, should turn in many good performances in their second season on the varsity. Tim Maloney, Dave Jarvis, Ed Matthews, Ben Wilks, Clyde and Tom Sims, all have shown promise and could likely gain starting berths on the team's lineup. Jim Plafkin, who is noted for his blazing fastball, returns this season as the team's top hurler, although Coach Biddick hopes to find a relief pitcher.

Trojans Swing Hard for Successful

Row 1; J. Krestakos, C. Kahn, I. Kinard, R. Gooch, T. Maloney, C. Sims, K. Farr, B. Wilks, Row 2; Mgr. Waalkes, E. Matthews, J. Culver, R. Risser, B. Hondorp, M. Simonson, J. Plafkin, S. Giammona, Row 3; L. Sarog, T. Dryer, G. Moser, J. Melin, D. Jarvis, E. Brown, T. Sims, M. Lawton, Coach Biddick.



Mike Simonson moves fast to cover action.

Trojan catcher, John Krestakos, makes a solid hit.

Season

Clyde Sims connects on an Ottawa pitcher for a good hit.

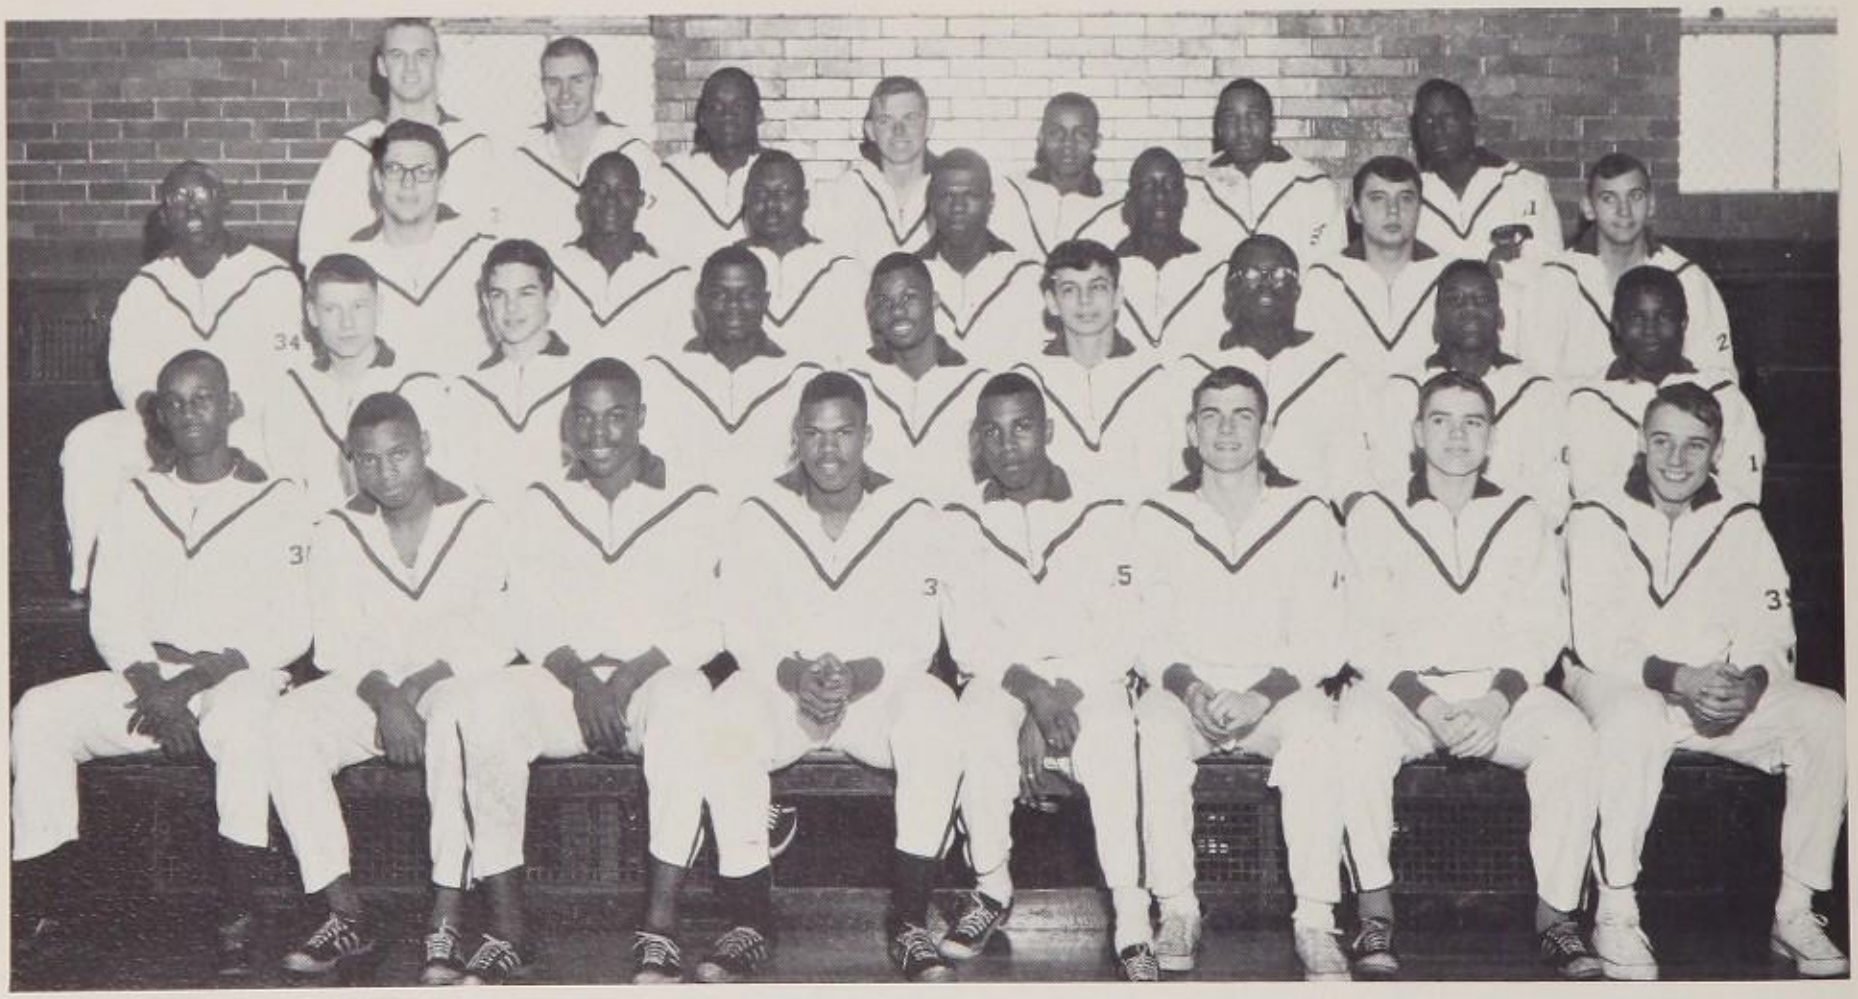
Distance runners, Dave Foley and Mike VanHouten, move up on Creston opponents in the first laps of the mile run.

The 1965 track team although lacking depth and experience is anticipating a promising season. A number of new faces have appeared this year with 20 out of the 32 members being sophomores. Five lettermen carry the experience for the Trojans into the "65" campaign. These five include Dave Foley, a top rated miler; Ed Mosley and Brad Martin, who handle the shotput department; Dan Holmes, an 880 runner; and Jon Jimmerson, our lone returning hurdler.

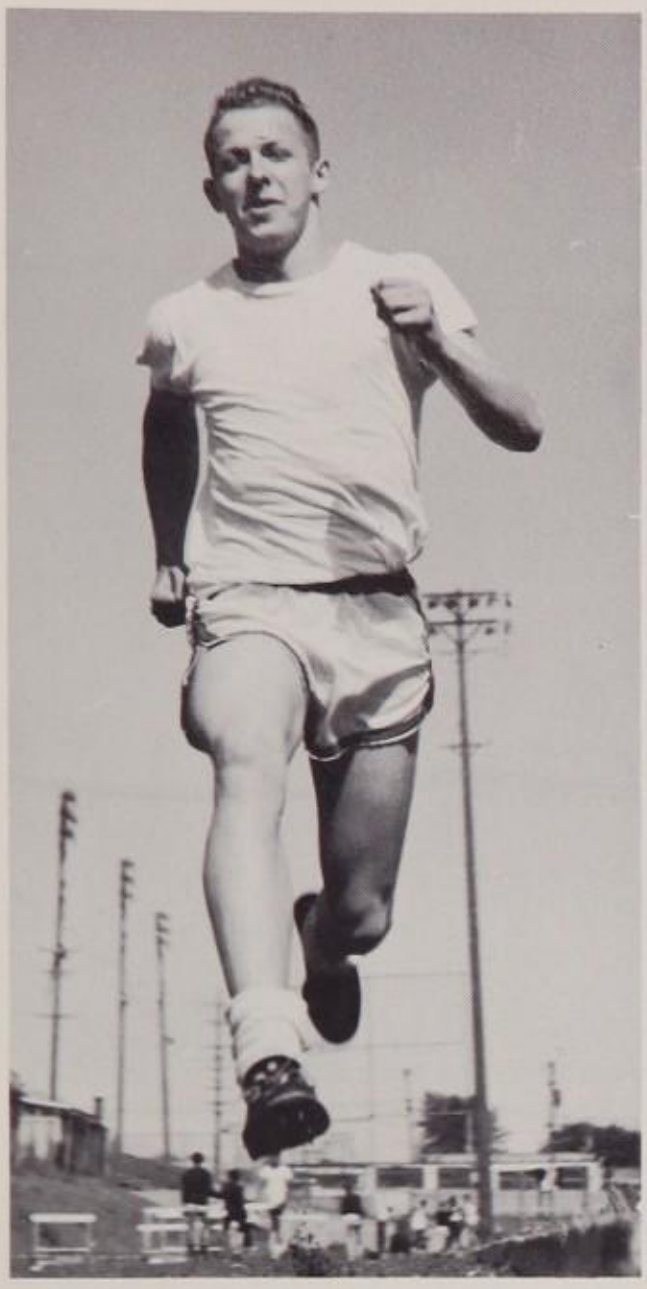
Coach Veenkamp, now in his 13th year as varsity track coach, feels South will be strong in the shotput, fair in the dashes, and lack depth in most of the other events, especially the pole vault.

Leading prospects for the sprints are all coming from the sophomore class. John Burts, Larry Monty, and John McGhee have shown good potential. Added depth is given to the sprinters by Ron Love who won the 75 yard dash in the junior high city meet in 1964. Sophomore Cleo Cross shows promise in the hurdle events.

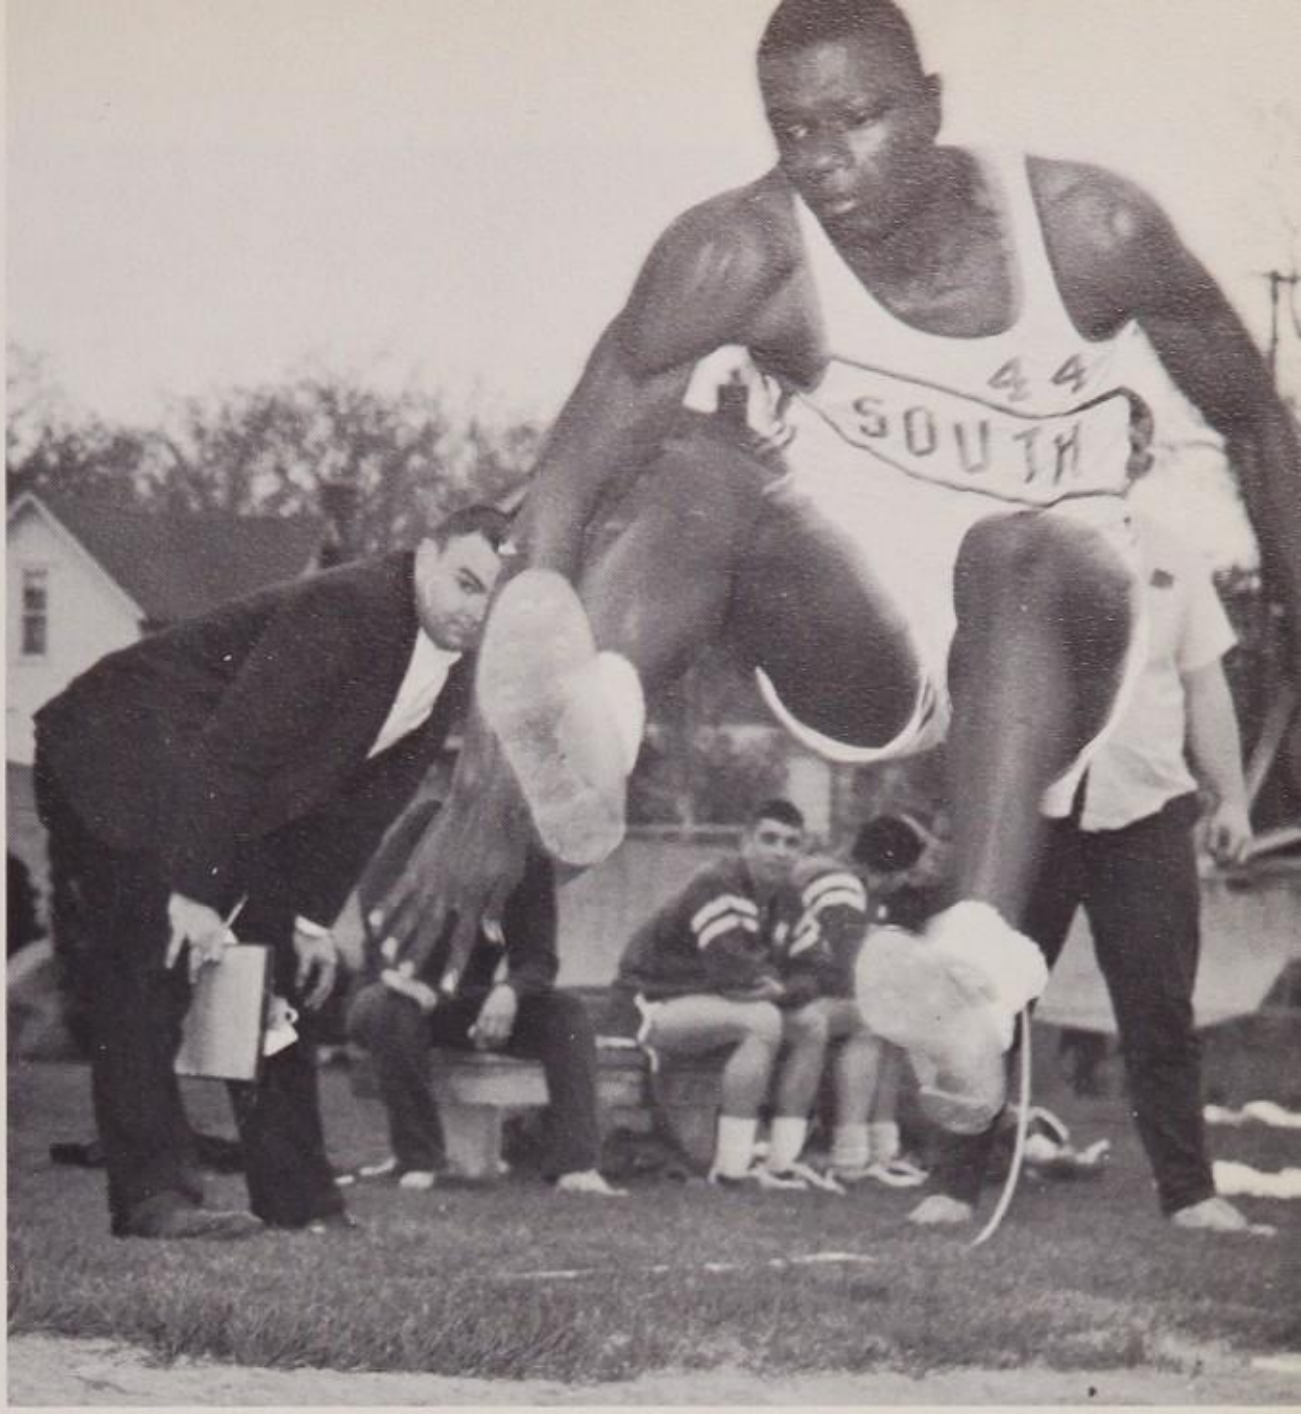
Cindermen Hope for Track Triumphs



Row 1 J. Burts, M. Carr, C. Cross, R. Crump, R. Edmonds, D. Foley, F. Frankema, R. Hammond, Row 2 D. Hatch, S. Hoyle, J. Jimmerson, D. Johnson, E. Kind, M. Lasha, S. Lee, R. Love, Row 3 R. Lovett, B. Martin, J. McGee, E. Mosley, L. Monday, J. Nixon, F. Russo, M. VanHouten. Row 4 H. Wietsma, J. Helms, D. Moore, L. Schaidt, L. Townsend, J. Whittington, G. Wilson.



Dan Holmes puts vigor in practice laps.



Track official watches as John Jimmerson scores in broadjump.

High jump artist Wes Armstrong clears bar.

Brad Martin watches as shotput soars skyward.

Kneeling: J. Bunnell, R. Huls, D. Bergsma, M. Bengelink, L. DeLiefde. Standing: A. Siciliano, B. Cosan, T. Blaizack, B. Wortman, T. Atkinson, T. Haan, T. Lawrence.

Golfers Look To Great Comeback

Senior duffer, Dave Bergsma, gets in a little pre-season practive.

The 1965 golf team will be hoping to end a win famine which dates back to the 1962 season. A turnout of thirteen candidates for the first practice indicates renewed interest in the sport. The return of several experienced golfers should give the team more strength than in former years. Heading the list of veterans is senior Dave Bergsma who should be one of the city's top players. Coach Genger is counting on the continued improvement of Rick Huls, Larry DeLiefde, and Jim Bunnell, to add depth to the team. Ray Potter's return after a year's absence should further bolster the team's efforts.

The long lingering snow of winter gave South's golfers a late start and they were unable to begin their regular outside until mid-April. The team uses the Indian Trails Golf Course as a practice area while their competitive play is carried on at private courses. Blythfield, Kent, Cascade, and Greenridge, are usually used as playing courses for meets. Coach Genger now in his ninth year as South's golf instructor spends much time working with his squad on the sports fundamentals, which will aid the players not only in high school competition, but in future years.

Netters Hope To Be Court Kings

With all available tennis courts buried under several inches of snow, South's netters were forced to practice indoors. Coach Hoek in his first year as the teams head, held daily practice at seven in the morning in South's Gym. Although unable to work on the sport's fundamentals, he toughened up the squad through running drills and rigorous calisthenics. The seventeen member team includes several top-notch veterans and a number of underclassmen hopefuls. Returning letterman, Dave Bentley, is acknowledged as one of the city's top players, led last year's squad to a five and two record and a third place finish. Jim Rigas, who last season proved himself a top competitor as a sophomore will likely win the second spot on this year's team. Coach Hoek is counting heavily on Bob VanderSchuur, Tom Woolpert, and Bill VanGemert, to produce victories on the court.

With the entry of East Christian to city league competition the netters now have eight dual matches in addition to the city and regional contests. Home matches are staged at four in the afternoon on the Garfield Park Courts.

The limited facilities offered during inside practice hampered players like Dave Bentley.

Cheerleaders' Spirit Helps To Raise

A great moral booster in any school are the cheerleading squads. The Varsity Cheerleaders of 1965 have given their time and energy to invoke a feeling of spirit and loyalty to others for their school. Coached by Miss Darling and Miss Rowell, these seven girls practice long hours and attend all games to inspire the spectators to support their team, and let them know that their school is behind them. These cheerleaders were selected early in the fall, due to the late passage of the millage, and only had two weeks to practice before the first football game.

The Junior Varsity has also been working all year to improve their newly developed cheering style, to encourage the Second Team basketball and football fans, and to get the sophomores caught in the excitement of South High. The Freshmen Cheerleaders follow the same patterns as the other two squads and cheer their Junior High teams to victory. We salute the South High Cheerleaders.

Student council was never like this.

Hi David!

Its been fun to say the least having you in my theology class this year. I'm sure glad I met you. I think you're one of the coolest days I know. I hope you get to see me soon because just having known you this year I know you can't go to long (maybe a week) without your Love.

Take it easy this summer and don't work too hard at anything cause you'll get too exhausted for your fun time. If ya ever want to get some people together sometime this summer maybe we can all go out to Grand Haven and have some Fun?

Stay Cool and don't ever change your Personality. Love it, Stay Tall! Behave, Be Good, Be Charming Be Lovin, that most of All.

Your Friend
Jette Daniel

P.S. Hope I see ya this summer.

Dear Dave,
Hi ya Kid. What ya been doing. I sure had a lot of fun this year with ya, (specially in Engish) May be I'll get to see ya this summer, I hope so. We had loads of fun talking about our great Loves and maybe next year things will be the same. Hope to have ya in some classes next year if not I'll see aya in the halls I'm not really hard to find.

Love ya
Dally

P.S
Don't feel to bad about Sue you might see her again

To Dave,
Good Luck,
Nadine Nolan

To a Wonderful person,

I'll be sorry for now now that I've failed to show you how away. I don't know what I'm going to do for love. I'll should ever real badly
I've number call me up and we can have a good old time talking like we did now, in the fall, I know it's going to be hard, being so far away from you, but don't ever stop loving me how two are made for each other

Best of luck
Love (Bess)

P.S.
Keep wearing the cool
madras hat. It makes you look even cooler
than you are already.

Tall Paul

How you doin' chump? (Woooo)
You better take care of the "O" and Doon again, cause if you don't, no more 'Bean, Bean with the ....." Take it easy this summer and don't cut your hair. It's guaranteed 100% Woooo proof.

Dear Dave,
Glad to have had
you in English class.
You're a real sharp kid
and I hope I get to know
you better next year.
Good luck always to you and Sue.

Always a friend
[illegible]

Dear [illegible]
I was going to write you a letter with my usual "I hope you're relaxed, just a happy HAPPY Bon-voyage note, mind. I hope you and Bob take a trip to Europe, and have a ball. Bon voyage.
Take care of yourself and have a nice time. I'm not sure how much you'll be able to write
because you're going to be so busy
having fun.
Dave was a doll
this summer.
P.S. I hate you

Dave was a doll.
You're a cutie.
You're sure beautiful.
Have fun in Europe.
Take care of yourself.
Don't forget to write.
Love,
Cathy S.

Hi Dave
Well its speakout time time again and now I'll have to dig around in the back of the empty spaces between the big thoughts and write down a few happened. Here come the

P.S.

Good luck in somethin ya do, cause you'll need it Boy. Don't get kicked out of
English again, cause
He wouldn't let ya
back this time (Yea)

PS. Don't get a Hair-cut,
I don't like to look at those Big ears of
